TO DISCONTINUE MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL IN FALL

The mandatory reduction of the number of Mt. Pleasant township schools from eight to seven before the opening of the next school year because average attendance at one of the schools has dropped below 10 was reported to the Adams county Board of School Directors at their March meeting Friday evening at the court house.

Attendance at Kilpatrick's school where Miss Kathryn V. Little is teacher has dropped below the minimum of 10 set by state law, the county board heard. However, instead of closing Kilpatrick's school, the township board has secured state authorization for the closing of Conewago school where 26 pupils are enrolled and the transportation of those pupils to the Kilpatrick building. The township authorities asked for permission for that action on the grounds that it would be "more convenient" than to transport the pupils now at Kilpatrick's to Conewago. Ruth D. McDannell is teacher at Conewago school this year.

May Add School Nurse

The board also heard that the possibility of adding a school nurse through joint action of several districts in the county was receiving favorable attention from some of the boards involved. York Springs, Fairfield and Biglerville boroughs and Hamiltonban township schools already employ a part time school nurse.

It was announced that Chester B. Worley, a member of the Latimore township school board who was elected to membership on the county board of directors at the recent directors' convention, took his oath of office before Deputy Clerk of the Courts Harry D. Ridinger on Thursday. Mr. Worley will begin a six-year term at the first board meeting in July when he will succeed S. A. Culbertson, Highland township.

The county superintendent's office reported that 17 school districts in the county have complied to date with the recommendation of the county directors' convention that the county superintendent's office be used as a repository for permanent teachers' rating records.

Ira Y. Baker, county superintendent, reported upon the International Conference for Educational Children which he attended recently at Pittsburgh and Assistant Superintendent Marsby C. Little told of the American Association of School Administrators which he and the county superintendent attended together at St. Louis following the Pittsburgh session.

All members of the county board attended with President Clarence J. Waybright, Freedom township, presiding.

School Directors Will Discuss Attendance Areas

Notices have been issued for a joint meeting of the Adams county board of school directors and the school boards of York Springs borough and Huntington and Latimore townships next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the York Springs high school building for the purpose of "studying and discussing attendance and administrative areas in the York Springs vicinity."

Raymond W. Robinson, chief of rural education and transportation, and H. Frank Hare, chief of secondary education in the state Department of Public Instruction, will attend the meeting.

Notices of the meeting were mailed from the office of the county superintendent of schools.

4 Arendtsville Students Join Honor Society

Four students of the Arendtsville vocational high school were inducted into membership of the National Honor society during the assembly period Friday.

Certificates and society pins were awarded Bess Fissel, Louise Kime, Doris Taylor and Bruce Raffensperger.

A charter as a member of the National Honor society was granted the Arendtsville school January 1. Members to the society are selected by a faculty committee on the basis of service, leadership and character in addition to high standing in scholarship.

Check Permits of Cigarette Dealers

Two representatives of the state Department of Revenue are in Gettysburg and the surrounding community making a check on all cigarette dealers to determine whether they have secured the state permits required after January 20.

Failure of a dealer to have the necessary certificate will bring a prosecution that carries a $35 fine, the officers said.

Students Please With Catchy Tunes and Bright Costumes of Operetta

Proving to be one of the most entertaining musicals presented here in recent years, "The Chimes of Normandy" was received enthusiastically by an audience that half-filled the Gettysburg high school auditorium on Friday evening.

Catchy tunes well-suited to student voices and bright costumes of the period of Louis XV contributed greatly, to the success of the two-act version of the light opera by Robert Planquette. It was presented by the Gettysburg high school music department under the general direction of Miss Dorothy Brindle, supervisor of music.

Effective solo work done by Ted Gilbert as "Henry, Count de Corneville"; Ethel Beard as "Serpolette," one of the miser's wards; Samuel Snyder as "Grenicheux," a sailor, and Janet Rebert, as "Germaine," second ward of "Gaspard," the miser.

Those and the other leading members of the cast turned in capable dramatic performances. William Harbaugh was convincing as the miser and Robert Hartman as "Bailli," the governor of Normandy village of Corneville, while Patty Jean Myers and Mary Louise Wentz appeared as prominent members of a village maidens.

The gaily-costumed choruses of village maidens, coachmen, peasants, men servants and maid servants pleased with their numbers.

Castle Is Background

The "haunted" ancestral castle of Corneville furnished the background for many tense scenes before the affairs and romantic interests of the leading members of the cast were happily arranged after the chimes rang out with the return of the rightful master of the castle. Proof that "Germaine" and not "Serpolette" was the true marchioness and that it was the count and not the sailor to whom she owed her life was provided before the interesting story closed.

Piano accompanists were Mary Louise Spangler and Ruth Martin

Miss Ruth McIlhenny assisted with the dramatic coaching, while Miss Anna Mumper, art supervisor; Miss Luftue Krause, home economics instructor, and girls of her department helped with the costumes. Miss Mumper and Elmer Shriver helped with the stage as did this student group: Robert Stoner, Raymond Spahr and Allen Larson.

Music between acts was provided by Dick Millard on the vibraharp.

Members of Choruses

Dances and drills were directed by Miss Relda Green, instructor in health at the high school.

Cast in the choruses were: Helen Keetauver, Gladys Kelly, Grace Waltemyer, Helen Zinn, Jean Wentz, Jean Spangler, Nadene Plank, Carolyn Oyler, Anna Swisher, Mary Jane Wolff, Ida May Alexander, Jean Johnston, Eleanor Tunghinbaugh, Betty Zinkand, Audrey Shoop, Anna Ulrich, Grace Spangler, Anne Deatrick, Betty Jane Deatrick, Betty Hand, Grace Dubs, Betty Lou Saylor, Patty Jean Myers, Mary Louise Wentz,

SCOUTERS FIX 1940 PROGRAM; YORKER SPEAKS

Gettysburg district scouters fixed 1940 objectives and planned special activities for the year at a dinner meeting on Thursday evening at Mrs. Smith's restaurant when E. A. Hirschman, York Chamber of Commerce secretary and chairman of Troop 1 of that city, delivered the principal address.

Scoutmasters, their assistants, troop committee members, pastors and other district scout officials attended the meeting. Dr. Ralph D. Heim was chairman of the committee in charge.

Mr. Hirschman, introduced by Dean W. E. Tilberg, area president, contrasted the benefits of the scouting program with "Progressive Education" and discussed public school methods as they affect scouting.

Chief Ray F. Zaner, area scout executive, and District Commissioner Jack Cessna, of Gettysburg, discussed with scoutmasters troop objectives for the year which were outlined by each troop's leader

An area pilgrimage to Gettysburg will be conducted on Saturday, October 5, when the scouts will place a wreath in the National cemetery and then be guests of Gettysburg college at a football game later in the day.

MORE CLOTHING BEING SHIPPED TO REFUGEES

The product of volunteer Red Cross workers, 25 women's flannel dresses, 19 children's sweaters, three adults' slipover sweaters and 25 layettes were being packed today for shipment to New York and then to Europe for the relief of civilian war refugees.

Today's shipment brings to a total of 1,400 articles the number of pieces of clothing produced through the efforts of the county Red Cross chapter at a cost of $303.83 for materials. This shipment is being packed, as have the others, by M. B. Frazee.

Next week more yarn is expected and a new call for 50 volunteers will be issued to crochet black circular shawls for women of Europe who are in want because of the war.

Receive Cash Also

While the Red Cross volunteers produce clothing for the war refugees, the chapter is authorized to receive cash donations from other persons who are not aiding in the production program.

Local chapter officials have been assured by National Chairman Norman H. Davis that all goods produced for war refugees in Europe, including the Poles, will be carried to the persons for whom they are intended. A representative of the American Red Cross meets each shipment of war relief materials at Genoa, Italy, and personally accompanies the shipment to its destination in what was Poland, where six relief agencies are assisting in the distribution.

Red Cross war relief already has cost the national Red Cross organization more than $1,171,000. More than 92,000 sweaters, dresses, mufflers, socks and layettes have been sent abroad already, but there are constant calls for more clothing.

This evening Chairman Davis will report on war relief work by the Red Cross up to the present time in a nation-wide radio broadcast at 7 o'clock

1,200 AT FINAL LECTURE FOR COOKING SCHOOL

With more than 1,200 women in attendance, the annual cooking school for Gettysburg and Adams county closed Friday evening in the armes of the Hotel Gettysburg.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of the gifts offered by merchants and manufacturers who co-operated in conducting the school with The Gettysburg Times.

Mrs. Nancy Rowe, the home economist who led the four evening sessions, again was well received by her audience.

"Don't let housekeeping get you," she advised. "If you find things piling up on you, just push them aside and forget them for a while, and then when you get around to them again, behold, you will soon find time for them."

Need Plenty of Room

"Have plenty of room," she continued "Have lots of storage space and plenty of closets in which to put things. Get them out of your way A cheerful, happy housekeeper is a good housekeeper. Callers will remember your disposition and never notice that you have been too busy to get all the dust off the top of the piano. But, be sure to mop behind the door!"

This light vein was just to impress her hearers that they need not be martyrs to their work. Seriously, Mrs. Rowe does not, of course, advocate slack housekeeping, but quite the contrary, which is always apparent.

"Carelessness in cooking makes careless results, of course," Mrs Rowe said, again impressing her favorites, the "beginners," with the importance of using good recipes and good methods in their work. "There is really nothing to cooking after all, a few simple rules to learn and stick to; a few simple motions to master, and there you are."

The cooking school audiences will recall Mrs Rowe's dish-washing rule—soap, swish, rinse, which she demonstrated so effectively. "Remember—keep happy—keep cheerful, don't fuss, and you will be a homemaker about whom people will

RUMANIA CAN'T MEET GERMANY'S SECURITY TERMS

Bucharest, March 16 (AP).—Sources close to King Carol declared today that Rumania could not pay Germany's price for a "security" offer

They described the terms for proposed Hungarian and Russian border guarantees as "intolerable and impossible of acceptance" and said the plan was doomed unless Germany modified it greatly.

Stiff opposition arose in high government quarters against every concession asked of Rumania—political, economic and military.

The king's advisers were said to feel that any Rumanian attempt to give Germany the virtual monopoly of exports she seeks would disrupt the country's economy almost as badly as war itself.

The king was pictured as particularly indignant over a reported German suggestion that he take a pro-nazi Iron Guardist into his cabinet.

A Rumanian military mission now in Berlin, it was reported reliably, has been told that Russia could be persuaded to sign a 25-year non-aggression pact with Rumania and that Hungary would pledge not to press territorial revision demands for 10 years.

Germany's Demands

Rumania, which already has a British-French pledge of aid against aggression, holds territory once possessed by Russia and Hungary.

For engineering such assurances, Germany, in need of Rumania's oil and grain, is reported to want:

Rumania's promise to demobilize most of her 1,600,000 soldiers at once so they can return to work in fields and factories;

Acceleration of Rumanian industry and agriculture to an unprecedented degree;

A virtual German monopoly on Rumania's exports of oil, cereals and other supplies;

Admission of one Iron Guard member to the Rumanian cabinet to "safeguard German interests."

Although the government is offering amnesty to 800 Iron Guardists now in concentration camps if they pledge allegiance to the king and join the National Rebirth Front—Rumania's only political party—fugitive leaders still in Germany will be barred from the homeland.

In some quarters, belief was held that the Guardist issue might prove insurmountable.

Dutch Keep Irish Tradition Alive In Shamrock, Pa.

Shamrock, Pa., March 16 (AP) —There's not a single Irishman in this community with the famed Emerald Isle name, but St. Patrick's Day won't go unnoticed.

Green Shamrock sprigs will appear all through the town on Sunday because the 25 "Pennsylvania Dutch" families are just as proud of the name as any Kelly or Burke.

They recall that Irish workers who built a railroad through this section more than 50 years ago found fields green with clover and were reminded of the shamrocks of the "ould sod."

When the road was finished, the workers moved on but, say the "Dutch" residents, it was inevitable that the depot should bear the name: "Shamrock."

TO DISCONTINUE MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL IN FALL

The mandatory reduction of the number of Mt. Pleasant township schools from eight to seven before the opening of the next school year because average attendance at one of the schools has dropped below 10 was reported to the Adams county Board of School Directors at their March meeting Friday evening at the court house.

Attendance at Kilpatrick's school where Miss Kathryn V. Little is teacher has dropped below the minimum of 10 set by state law, the county board heard. However, instead of closing Kilpatrick's school, the township board has secured state authorization for the closing of Conewago school where 26 pupils are enrolled and the transportation of those pupils to the Kilpatrick building. The township authorities asked for permission for that action on the grounds that it would be "more convenient" than to transport the pupils now at Kilpatrick's to Conewago. Ruth D. McDannell is teacher at Conewago school this year.

May Add School Nurse

The board also heard that the possibility of adding a school nurse through joint action of several districts in the county was receiving favorable attention from some of the boards involved. York Springs, Fairfield and Biglerville boroughs and Hamiltonban township schools already employ a part time school nurse.

It was announced that Chester B. Worley, a member of the Latimore township school board who was elected to membership on the county board of directors at the recent directors' convention, took his oath of office before Deputy Clerk of the Courts Harry D. Ridinger on Thursday. Mr. Worley will begin a six-year term at the first board meeting in July when he will succeed S. A. Culbertson, Highland township.

The county superintendent's office reported that 17 school districts in the county have complied to date with the recommendation of the county directors' convention that the county superintendent's office be used as a repository for permanent teachers' rating records.

Ira Y. Baker, county superintendent, reported upon the International Conference for Educational Children which he attended recently at Pittsburgh and Assistant Superintendent Marsby C. Little told of the American Association of School Administrators which he and the county superintendent attended together at St. Louis following the Pittsburgh session.

All members of the county board attended with President Clarence J. Waybright, Freedom township, presiding.

Students Please With Catchy Tunes and Bright Costumes of Operetta

Proving to be one of the most entertaining musicals presented here in recent years, "The Chimes of Normandy" was received enthusiastically by an audience that half-filled the Gettysburg high school auditorium on Friday evening.

Catchy tunes well-suited to student voices and bright costumes of the period of Louis XV contributed greatly, to the success of the two-act version of the light opera by Robert Planquette. It was presented by the Gettysburg high school music department under the general direction of Miss Dorothy Brindle, supervisor of music.

Effective solo work done by Ted Gilbert as "Henry, Cound de Corneville"; Ethel Beard as "Serpolette," one of the miser's wards; Samuel Snyder as "Grenicheux," a sailor, and Janet Rebert, as "Germaine," second ward of "Gaspard," the miser.

Those and the other leading members of the cast turned in capable dramatic performances. William Harbaugh was convincing as the miser and Robert Hartman as "Bailli," the governor of Normandy village of Corneville, while Patty Jean Myers and Mary Louise Wentz appeared as prominent members of a village maidens.

The gaily-costumed choruses of village maidens, coachmen, peasants, men servants and maid servants pleased with their numbers.

Castle Is Background

The "haunted" ancestral castle of Corneville furnished the background for many tense scenes before the affairs and romantic interests of the leading members of the cast were happily arranged after the chimes rang out with the return of the rightful master of the castle. Proof that "Germaine" and not "Serpolette" was the true marchioness and that it was the count and not the sailor to whom she owed her life was provided before the interesting story closed.

Piano accompanists were Mary Louise Spangler and Ruth Martin.

Miss Ruth McIlhenny assisted with the dramatic coaching, while Miss Anna Mumper, art supervisor; Miss LaRue Krause, home economics instructor, and girls of her department helped with the costumes. Miss Mumper and Elmer Shriver helped with the stage as did this student group: Robert Stoner, Raymond Spahr and Allen Larson.

Music between acts was provided by Dick Millard on the vibraharp.

Members of Choruses

Dances and drills were directed by Miss Relda Green, instructor in health at the high school.

Cast in the choruses were: Helen Keefauver, Gladys Kelly, Grace Waltemyer, Helen Zinn, Jean Wentz, Jean Spangler, Nadene Plank, Carolyn Oyler, Anna Swisher, Mary Jane Wolff, Ida May Alexander, Jean Johnston, Eleanor Taughinbaugh, Betty Zinkand, Audrey Shoop, Anna Ullrich, Grace Spangler, Anne Deatrick, Betty Jane Deatrick, Betty Hand, Grace Dubs, Betty Lou Saylor, Patty Jean Myers, Mary Louise Wentz.

SCOUTERS FIX 1940 PROGRAM; YORKER SPEAKS

Gettysburg district scouters fixed 1940 objectives and planned special activities for the year at a dinner meeting on Thursday evening at Mrs. Smith's restaurant when E. A. Hirschman, York Chamber of Commerce secretary and chairman of Troop 1 of that city, delivered the principal address.

Scoutmasters, their assistants, troop committee members, pastors and other district scout officials attended the meeting. Dr. Ralph D. Heim was chairman of the committee in charge.

Mr. Hirschman, introduced by Dean W. E. Tilberg, area president, contrasted the benefits of the scouting program with "Progressive Education" and discussed public school methods as they affect scouting.

Chief Ray F. Zaner, area scout executive, and District Commissioner Jack Cessna, of Gettysburg, discussed with scoutmasters troop objectives for the year which were outlined by each troop's leader.

Camporee Dates Set

The Gettysburg District Scout Leaders' association, which was organized on March 6, will meet again on April 3 at the college Y. M. C. A. building when scoutmasters and their assistants will talk over scout work and arrange for coming events.

The next district court of honor will be held April 15, it was announced.

June 10 and 11 are the dates set for the annual Gettysburg district camporee to be held this year at the site of the first local C.C.C. camp along West Confederate avenue on the battlefield.

Another reunion camp for York-Adams Boy Scouts who served here during the 75th anniversary of the battle in 1938 will be held on the battlefield about July 1, Chief Zaner stated. J. W. Thorne, York, will be in charge.

An area pilgrimage to Gettysburg will be conducted on Saturday, October 5, when the scouts will place a wreath in the National cemetery and then be guests of Gettysburg college at a football game later in the day.

It was revealed that 16 scouts in the area, above the age of 16 years will be selected for a canoe trip in the Adirondaks some time next summer. Scouts probably will be selected on merit for the trip.

Those Present

District officials present included: Troop 74, Scoutmaster Ernest Carter and his assistant, Frank Dearing; Troop 76, Scoutmaster John Caskey; Cub Pack 78, Cub Master William Bagot and Stanley Paluskievicz, his assistant; Troop 79, Scoutmaster William Ridinger and Junior Assistants Clayton Warman, Willis Ross, Richard Ridinger and Henry Steininger, Jr.; Troop 80, Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, scoutmaster, and William Waltemyer, Jr., and John Saby, assistants, and these scouters: Dr. R. BRITISH, NAZIS EXCHANGE RAIDS

London, March 16 (AP)—The British and German air forces exchanged raids within the last 24 hours, the air ministry announced today, with the British making an "extensive" flight over Poland and a German bomber clashing with the British coastal patrol in a running fight.

A ministry communique said that air activities of the last 24 hours included "an extensive night flight over Polish territory by the aircraft bomber command and an engagement between the aircraft of the coastal command and an enemy bomber."

"During a running fight in which the enemy repeatedly attacked, damage was seen to be inflicted," the communique continued. "The enemy aircraft finally escaped in the clouds."

MORE CLOTHING BEING SHIPPED TO REFUGEES

The product of volunteer Red Cross workers, 25 women's flannel dresses, 19 children's sweaters, three adults' slipover sweaters and 25 layettes were being packed today for shipment to New York and then to Europe for the relief of civilian war refugees.

Today's shipment brings to a total of 1,400 articles the number of pieces of clothing produced through the efforts of the county Red Cross chapter at a cost of $303.83 for materials. This shipment is being packed, as have the others, by M. B. Frazee.

Next week more yarn is expected and a new call for 50 volunteers will be issued to crochet black circular shawls for women of Europe who are in want because of the war.

Receive Cash Also

While the Red Cross volunteers produce clothing for the war refugees, the chapter is authorized to receive cash donations from other persons who are not aiding in the production program.

Local chapter officials have been assured by National Chairman Norman H. Davis that all goods produced for war refugees in Europe, including the Poles, will be carried to the persons for whom they are intended. A representative of the American Red Cross meets each shipment of war relief materials at Genoa, Italy, and personally accompanies the shipment to its destination in what was Poland, where six relief agencies are assisting in the distribution.

Red Cross war relief already has cost the national Red Cross organization more than $1,171,000. More than 92,000 sweaters, dresses, mufflers, socks and layettes have been sent abroad already, but there are constant calls for more clothing.

This evening Chairman Davis will report on war relief work by the Red Cross up to the present time in a nation-wide radio broadcast at 7 o'clock.

1,200 AT FINAL LECTURE FOR COOKING SCHOOL

With more than 1,200 women in attendance, the annual cooking school for Gettysburg and Adams county closed Friday evening in the annex of the Hotel Gettysburg.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of the gifts offered by merchants and manufacturers who co-operated in conducting the school with The Gettysburg Times.

Mrs. Nancy Rowe, the home economist who led the four evening sessions, again was well received by her audience.

"Don't let housekeeping get you," she advised. "If you find things piling up on you, just push them aside and forget them for a while, and then when you get around to them again, behold, you will soon find time for them."

Need Plenty of Room

"Have plenty of room," she continued. "Have lots of storage space and plenty of closets in which to put things. Get them out of your way. A cheerful, happy housekeeper is a good housekeeper. Callers will remember your disposition and never notice that you have been too busy to get all the dust off the top of the piano. But, be sure to mop behind the door!"

This light vein was just to impress her hearers that they need not be martyrs to their work. Seriously, Mrs. Rowe does not, of course, advocate slack housekeeping, but quite the contrary, which is always apparent.

"Carelessness in cooking makes careless results, of course," Mrs. Rowe said, again impressing her favorites, the "beginners," with the importance of using good recipes and good methods in their work. "There is really nothing to cooking after all, a few simple rules to learn and stick to; a few simple motions to master, and there you are."

The cooking school audiences will recall Mrs. Rowe's dish-washing rule—soap, swish, rinse, which she demonstrated so effectively. "Remember—keep happy—keep cheerful, don't fuss, and you will be a homemaker about whom people will

LINCOLN—GETTYSBURG

In November, 1938, an Association and a Fellowship were organized at Gettysburg within three days of each other. The basis for the founding of the two organizations centers on Gettysburg. Each had its origin in Gettysburg and the objective of each will be of benefit to Gettysburg. For that reason, and because they are sincere and worthwhile units, this column devotes this space to their recognition.

* * *

The Gettysburg Historians' Association, with headquarters in South Orange, New Jersey, was organized on November 16, 1938. The executive committee consists of George Gordon Meade, of Ambler, Pa., grandson of General George Gordon Meade who was in command of the Union troops in the three days' Battle of Gettysburg; Paul Freeman, of Philadelphia, and Winfield Newton Burdick, of South Orange.

The purpose of the association is to help "preserve the Battlefield of Gettysburg as a National Shrine, to which past generations have gone and to which future generations will go, to honor those who fought here . . . to gather life members from over the whole nation, and thus to awaken as many people as possible to this situation; to encourage inter-

WILL INSPECT HISTORY BOOKS

A committee to investigate the reported use of "objectionable" United States history books in some grade schools in Adams county was appointed at the regular meeting of the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of the Union Veterans on Friday evening. Commander W. Preston Hull presided and named J. E. Snyder, the camp's patriotic instructor; William L. Meals, Esq., and William I. Shields to the committee.

The camp ordered the committee appointment after it heard reports that history textbooks tending to "minimize the crime of the rebellion and to depreciate the services of the northern army in the salvation of the Union" are being used by Adams county boys and girls.

The committee expects to make a report at the next meeting of the camp to be held on Friday evening, April 5.

Friday's meeting was well attended.

RUMANIA CAN'T MEET GERMANY'S SECURITY TERMS

Bucharest, March 16 (AP).—Sources close to King Carol declared today that Rumania could not pay Germany's price for a "security" offer.

They described the terms for proposed Hungarian and Russian border guarantees as "intolerable and impossible of acceptance" and said the plan was doomed unless Germany modified it greatly.

Stiff opposition arose in high government quarters against every concession asked of Rumania—political, economic and military.

The king's advisers were said to feel that any Rumanian attempt to give Germany the virtual monopoly of exports she seeks would disrupt the country's economy almost as badly as war itself.

The king was pictured as particularly indignant over a reported German suggestion that he take a pro-nazi Iron Guardist into his cabinet.

A Rumanian military mission now in Berlin, it was reported reliably, has been told that Russia could be persuaded to sign a 25-year non-aggression pact with Rumania and that Hungary would pledge not to press territorial revision demands for 10 years.

Germany's Demands

Rumania, which already has a British-French pledge of aid against aggression, holds territory once possessed by Russia and Hungary.

For engineering such assurances, Germany, in need of Rumania's oil and grain, is reported to want:

Rumania's promise to demobilize most of her 1,600,000 soldiers at once so they can return to work in fields and factories;

Acceleration of Rumanian industry and agriculture to an unprecedented degree;

A virtual German monopoly on Rumania's exports of oil, cereals and other supplies;

Admission of one Iron Guard member to the Rumanian cabinet to "safeguard German interests."

Although the government is offering amnesty to 800 Iron Guardists now in concentration camps if they pledge allegiance to the king and join the National Rebirth Front—Rumania's only political party—fugitive leaders still in Germany will be barred from the homeland.

In some quarters, belief was held that the Guardist issue might prove insurmountable.

Dutch Keep Irish Tradition Alive In Shamrock, Pa.

Shamrock, Pa., March 16 (AP)—There's not a single Irishman in this community with the famed Emerald isle name, but St. Patrick's Day won't go unnoticed.

Green Shamrock sprigs will appear all through the town on Sunday because the 25 "Pennsylvania Dutch" families are just as proud of the name as any Kelly or Burke.

They recall that Irish workers who built a railroad through this section more than 50 years ago found fields green with clover and were reminded of the shamrocks of the "ould sod."

When the road was finished, the workers moved on but, say the "Dutch" residents, it was inevitable that the depot should bear the name: "Shamrock."

Delores Del Rio and Husband Separate

Hollywood, March 16 (AP).—Dolores Del Rio's separation from her movie art director husband, Cedric Gibbons, topped Hollywood's news today.

At Palm Springs, where film celebrities acquire their winter tans, the dark-eyed, Mexico-born Del Rio admitted that the oft-repeated rumors were true—that all was not well in the Gibbons household.

She said, however, she had no intention of divorcing her husband of 10 years. Gossips have linked her name occasionally with that of Orson Welles, youthful actor-director-writer divorced by Virginia Nicolson Welles last month.

Other Hollywood news:

A special train, loaded with actors and film executives and bound for movie premieres at Reno and Virginia City, Nevada, has on board Mrs. John Hay (Jock) Whitney.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

SURPRISE

Marcus Hook, Pa.—After a locomotive wrecked his automobile in a grade crossing accident, James S. Silecki didn't feel much like sticking around. His face was cut, his back injured and several ribs were fractured; he went home for treatment. Several hours later, police hammered on his door and charged him with leaving the scene of an accident.

MAJESTY OF THE LAW

Indianapolis.—Thieves who took 96 gallon cans of apricot jam from a Civilian Conservation Corps truck dumped it into Fall creek. Three boys with long poles fished out 36 cans. They told their mothers. Their mothers told police. A police emergency squad went to the place with a boat and drag-hooks, fished an hour — but couldn't bring up a single can.

COMPENSATION

Albuquerque, N. M.—It's not a bad life, being a material witness for the United States government, say three Juarez, Mexico residents. Federal officers who escorted the trio back across the border disclosed the Mexicans had been held in Santa Fe as material witnesses nearly six months. Each Mexican received board, room and $166, which is nearly 1,000 pesos at current exchange rates.

WHERE'S THE FIRE

Bingham, Utah.—The fire siren in this mining city may mean:

1. There's a fire, or
2. It's 9 p. m. and all youngsters should be home in bed.

Bingham's firemen agreed to sound curfew for the city council after Councilman A. J. Ablett asserted "too many kids are chasing the streets."

RUDE AWAKENING

Grand Island, Neb.—Like a cat toying with a mouse Officer M. G. Martin watched a man ransack an automobile near a downtown hotel. "I'll get a perfect case on him," Martin told himself. Like a cat out of the bag Martin sped to the arrest, realizing suddenly it was his car that was being ransacked.

SEE SCHEDULE

Pawtucket, R. I.—Harry McCoart would like to know if he can get an $800 deduction from his income tax. He was busy poring over the papers that he failed to notice a spark from his cigar ignited the lace curtains. Total damage $800—and all his figures.

PRECAUTION

Vancouver, B. C.—Mrs. B. Olson, called to testify against a suspect in a theft case, was asked to identify some of the loot. She held up a sheet and pointed to the words "stolen from 1031½ Hastings, east" stenciled on it.

PROPHETIC

Minneapolis.—Charles Anderson, 52, was being questioned at his burglary trial.

"How many times have you been convicted of a crime?"

"Five times," answered Anderson, "and this'll be the sixth."

He was right. A jury convicted him.

HOT DOG—HOTTER MAN

Dallas.—"I was doing all right" the prisoner told Municipal Judge Joe Hill, "until my dog hauled off and kicked me. Then I figured the world was against me, so I started some trouble." The judge wasn't very sympathetic, either. He said the fine would be $10, for drunkenness.

LUCKY 13

Jerseyville, Ill.—Number "13" is lucky for the Chilford Cary family. Twins were born to Mrs. Cary on March 13—just 13 minutes apart.

BUCKNELL BOXERS WIN

Lewisburg, Pa., March 16 (AP).—Three individual championships and two second-bests earned Bucknell university's eight-man squad an impressive 21 points and its second hold on the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing conference team title Friday night. Temple's three finalists each came through with individual titles before a crowd of 1,800 in Bucknell's home gym to give the Owls 15 points and second rating, while West Virginia university and City College of New York tied for 14.

CANCELS BOUT

New York, March 16 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs, rather than put in a substitute for Valentin Campolo, today cancelled next Wednesday night's boxing show at Madison Square Garden. Campolo was to have met Buddy Baer in the 12-round main bout. Campolo, Argentine heavyweight hopeful, was ordered to bed with the grippe by his own doctor and told he couldn't appear Wednesday. Dr. William Walker, of the New York state athletic commission, said he could find "no symptoms of anything wrong with the man."

TYPIST SLIPPED

Concord, N. C., March 16 (AP)—Deputy I. J. Helms, about to arrest a man, read to him a warrant charging that he attempted to "kiss his wife." Both men blinked and stared at the accusation. The deputy checked back and found that a typist's finger had slipped. The word should have been "kill."

STILL PREFER BLONDS

New Wilmington, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Blonde Queens of the May are becoming a tradition at Westminster college. Reigning over this year's celebration will be Lois Porch, sports-loving co-ed with honey-colored hair, blue eyes and a sorority presidency. She's from Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

URGED—Friends are pressing Gen. Robert E. Wood (above), executive of a Chicago mail order house, to run for the U. S. Senate. A life-long Republican, he voted for Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936. Wood supervises a $600,000,000-a-year business.

WELLES AT END OF FACT-FINDING EUROPEAN TRIP

Rome, March 16 (AP).—German Ambassador Hans-Georg Viktor Von Mackensen made a surprise visit to the Italian foreign office today while Sumner Welles and Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano were conferring.

The German ambassador's call led to belief that he might have taken an urgent message he wanted delivered to Ciano before he ended his conference with President Roosevelt's fact-finder.

German sources said, however, that he did not join the discussions.

Von Mackensen remained at the foreign office only 15 minutes. The American undersecretary of state, who was accompanied by United States Ambassador William Phillips, left Ciano at 11:15 a. m. (5:15 a. m. E.S.T.) after an hour's talk.

Ten minutes after they reached Palazzo Chigi at 10:07 a. m. (4:07 a. m. E.S.T.), the German envoy entered the foreign ministry.

His automobile came from the direction of Palazzo Venezia, Premier Mussolini's office, causing observers to speculate that he might have seen Il Duce first.

Back in Rome, the starting point of his confidential survey of Europe, Welles started one of the busiest days of his tour by paying a 45-minute call on King Vittorio Emanuele, whom he had not seen during his previous stay here.

Immediately afterward, he left for the Palazzo Chigi to see Count Ciano.

Shortly after the American's arrival it was announced that Pope Pius XII would give him an audience Monday.

The announcement prompted observers to speculate that possible peace moves might be discussed.

Diplomats here expected the entire European situation to be reviewed.

In arranging final talks, Welles was covering the same ground as did German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop on his recent visit here.

A possibility that new information from the German standpoint might be supplied Welles lay in the fact that Von Ribbentrop, in his talk with Mussolini, might have offered some suggestion for the Italian premier to pass along.

When Welles sails from Naples Tuesday he will have ended a 24-day tour that included Rome, Berlin, Paris and London.

Delores Del Rio and Husband Separate

Hollywood, March 16 (AP).—Dolores Del Rio's separation from her movie art director husband, Cedric Gibbons, topped Hollywood's news today.

At Palm Springs, where film celebrities acquire their winter tans, the dark-eyed, Mexico-born Del Rio admitted that the oft-repeated rumors were true—that all was not well in the Gibbons household.

She said, however, she had no intention of divorcing her husband of 10 years. Gossips have linked her name occasionally with that of Orson Welles, youthful actor-director-writer divorced by Virginia Nicolson Welles last month.

Other Hollywood news:

A special train, loaded with actors and film executives and bound for movie premieres at Reno and Virginia City, Nevada, has on board Mrs. John Hay (Jock) Whitney.

The New York society woman, who is negotiating for a studio acting role, has told friends she may seek a Nevada divorce from her wealthy sportsman husband, who is vacationing near here.

Mary Livingstone is ill of a throat infection and may miss her broadcast with Jack Benny Sunday.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

SURPRISE

Marcus Hook, Pa.—After a locomotive wrecked his automobile in a grade crossing accident, James S. Silecki didn't feel much like sticking around. His face was cut, his back injured and several ribs were fractured; he went home for treatment. Several hours later, police hammered on his door and charged him with leaving the scene of an accident.

MAJESTY OF THE LAW

Indianapolis.—Thieves who took 96 gallon cans of apricot jam from a Civilian Conservation Corps truck dumped it into Fall creek. Three boys with long poles fished out 36 cans. They told their mothers. Their mothers told police. A police emergency squad went to the place with a boat and drag-hooks, fished an hour — but couldn't bring up a single can.

COMPENSATION

Albuquerque, N. M.—It's not a bad life, being a material witness for the United States government, say three Juarez, Mexico residents. Federal officers who escorted the trio back across the border disclosed the Mexicans had been held in Santa Fe as material witnesses nearly six months. Each Mexican received board, room and $166, which is nearly 1,000 pesos at current exchange rates.

WHERE'S THE FIRE

Bingham, Utah.—The fire siren in this mining city may mean:

1. There's a fire, or
2. It's 9 p. m. and all youngsters should be home in bed.

Bingham's firemen agreed to sound curfew for the city council after Councilman A. J. Ablett asserted "too many kids are chasing the streets."

RUDE AWAKENING

Grand Island, Neb.—Like a cat toying with a mouse Officer M. G. Martin watched a man ransack an automobile near a downtown hotel. "I'll get a perfect case on him," Martin told himself. Like a cat out of the bag Martin sped to the arrest, realizing suddenly it was his car that was being ransacked.

SEE SCHEDULE

Pawtucket, R. I.—Harry McCoart would like to know if he can get an $800 deduction from his income tax. He was busy poring over the papers that he failed to notice a spark from his cigar ignited the lace curtains. Total damage $800—and all his figures.

PRECAUTION

Vancouver, B. C.—Mrs. B. Olson, called to testify against a suspect in a theft case, was asked to identify some of the loot. She held up a sheet and pointed to the words "stolen from 103½ Hastings, east" stenciled on it.

PROPHETIC

Minneapolis.—Charles Anderson, 52, was being questioned at his burglary trial.

"How many times have you been convicted of a crime?"

"Five times," answered Anderson, "and this'll be the sixth."

He was right. A jury convicted him.

HOT DOG—HOTTER MAN

Dallas.—"I was doing all right" the prisoner told Municipal Judge Joe Hill, "until my dog hauled off and kicked me. Then I figured the world was against me, so I started some trouble." The judge wasn't very sympathetic, either. He said the fine would be $10, for drunkenness.

LUCKY 13

Jerseyville, Ill.—Number "13" is lucky for the Clifford Cary family. Twins were born to Mrs. Cary on March 13—just 13 minutes apart.

BUCKNELL BOXERS WIN

Lewisburg, Pa., March 16 (AP).—Three individual championships and two second-bests earned Bucknell university's eight-man squad an impressive 21 points and its second hold on the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing conference team title Friday night. Temple's three finalists each came through with individual titles before a crowd of 1,800 in Bucknell's home gym to give the Owls 15 points and second rating, while West Virginia university and City College of New York tied for 14.

CANCELS BOUT

New York, March 16 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs, rather than put in a substitute for Valentin Campolo, today cancelled next Wednesday night's boxing show at Madison Square Garden. Campolo was to have met Buddy Baer in the 12-round main bout. Campolo, Argentine heavyweight hopeful, was ordered to bed with the grippe by his own doctor and told he couldn't appear Wednesday. Dr. William Walker, of the New York state athletic commission, said he could find "no symptons of anything wrong with the man."

TYPIST SLIPPED

Concord, N. C., March 16 (AP)—Deputy I. J. Helms, about to arrest a man, read to him a warrant charging that he attempted to "kiss his wife." Both men blinked and stared at the accusation. The deputy checked back and found that a typist's finger had slipped. The word should have been "kill."

STILL PREFER BLONDS

New Wilmington, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Blonde Queens of the May are becoming a tradition at Westminster college. Reigning over this year's celebration will be Lois Porch, sports-loving co-ed with honey-colored hair, blue eyes and a sorority presidency. She's from Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

URGED—Friends are pressing Gen. Robert E. Wood (above), executive of a Chicago mail order house, to run for the U. S. Senate. A life-long Republican, he voted for Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936. Wood supervises a $600,000,000-a-year business.

WELLES AT END OF FACT-FINDING EUROPEAN TRIP

Rome, March 16 (AP).—German Ambassador Hans-Georg Viktor Von Mackensen made a surprise visit to the Italian foreign office today while Sumner Welles and Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano were conferring.

The German ambassador's call led to belief that he might have taken an urgent message he wanted delivered to Ciano before he ended his conference with President Roosevelt's fact-finder.

German sources said, however, that he did not join the discussions.

Von Mackensen remained at the foreign office only 15 minutes. The American undersecretary of state, who was accompanied by United States Ambassador William Phillips, left Ciano at 11:15 a. m. (5:15 a. m. E.S.T.) after an hour's talk.

Ten minutes after they reached Palazzo Chigi at 10:07 a. m. (4:07 a .m., E.S.T), the German envoy entered the foreign ministry.

His automobile came from the direction of Palazzo Venezia, Premier Mussolini's office, causing observers to speculate that he might have seen Il Duce first.

Back in Rome, the starting point of his confidential survey of Europe, Welles started one of the busiest days of his tour by paying a 45-minute call on King Vittorio Emanuele, whom he had not seen during his previous stay here.

Immediately afterward, he left for the Palazzo Chigi to see Count Ciano.

Shortly after the American's arrival it was announced that Pope Pius XII would give him an audience Monday.

The announcement prompted observers to speculate that possible peace moves might be discussed.

Diplomats here expected the entire European situation to be reviewed.

In arranging final talks, Welles was covering the same ground as did German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop on his recent visit here.

A possibility that new information from the German standpoint might be supplied Welles lay in the fact that Von Ribbentrop, in his talk with Mussolini, might have offered some suggestion for the Italian premier to pass along.

When Welles sails from Naples Tuesday he will have ended a 24-day tour that included Rome, Berlin, Paris and London.

FRED HAMILTON GRANTED AWARD

Frederick C. Hamilton, of Lancaster, received the highest award that can be given a Gettysburg college athlete Friday evening when he was given the Charles Beachem award for outstanding merit in the field of athletics.

The announcement was made at the annual Athlete's Night program held by the Student Christian Association of Gettysburg college. E. E. "Tad" Wieman, head football coach of Princeton university, was the principal speaker.

The award is given each year to the senior athlete who also meets requirements for scholastic attainment and Christian leadership.

Hamilton, a graduate of Haverford high school, was the sparkplug and captain of Gettysburg's Eastern Pennsylvania collegiate championship football team last fall and received recognition of the Associated Press's second all-state eleven. In addition, he has been a member of the Bullet court team and baseball nine for the last three seasons.

An honor student scholastically, Hamilton has also been active in other extra-curricular activities as president of the men's student council, a member of the Gettysburg honor society, class president his freshman year, and president of Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity.

HAZLETON FACES LOWER MERION

What is regarded as "the game" of the year in state scholastic basketball circles will be played tonight at Philadelphia when Hazleton and Lower Merion clash in one of the four inter-district elimination tussles leading to the state P. I. A. A. championship.

A capacity crowd of 10,000 is expected to push into the University of Pennsylvania Palestra to see the game nearly everyone has been waiting for since Lower Merion upset Hazleton, 20-17, at Hershey last year.

Most observers believe the winner will succeed Homestead as the state titleholder. Hughie McGeehan, Hazleton coach, is trying for his fourth state crown while Bill Anderson, Lower Merion mentor, is seeking to enter the state finals for the fifth time. Only once did Lower Merion win the coveted laurels, however.

The other eastern Pennsylvania inter-district clash will be held at Kingston between Luzerne, district two, and Shinglehouse, class "B" outfit that scored a major upset by beating Shamokin, class "A" winner for the district four crown.

In the west, Brookville, champions of district nine, meet district ten's titleholders, Farrell, at Greenville, while at Pittsburgh Conemaugh Township, district five, encounters Pittsburgh Fifth Avenue, kings of district eight.

Clark's Summit succeeded Dalton as champion of district 12 Friday night by beating Hallstead, 37-23, while Conemaugh retained its district six laurels, defeating Ferndale, 35-23.

Training Camp Briefs

(By the Associated Press)

San Diego, Calif.—Some major league clubs shuffle their lineups for grapefruit league contests, but not the Pittsburgh Pirates. Manager Frank Frisch says, "we have so much stuff to try out," the Pirate first string will be kept intact in all games against major league opponents. Substitutes will get a chance against the minor leaguers, though.

Sarasota, Fla.—Manager Joe Cronin, who has been suffering from a cold, expected to get into the Boston Red Sox lineup at shortstop today as the club opened the home "grapefruit" season against the Cincinnati Reds. Dominic DiMaggio declared his leg felt so good he would be back in uniform early next week.

San Antonio, Tex.—The lineup that may open the 1940 season for the St. Louis Browns was on parade today against the Tulsa Oilers. Manager Fred Haney nominated Elden Auker, Roxie Lawson and Nate Andrews as hurlers; George McQuinn, Don Heffner, Alan Strange and Harlond Clift for the infield; Joe Gallagher, Chet Laabs and Myril Hoag in the outfield, and Sam Harshany catcher.

Sarasota, Fla.—Paring of the roster has begun for the Cincinnati Reds with an announcement by Manager Bill McKechnie optioning Catcher Dick West, Outfielder Art Luce and First Baseman Joe Mack to Indianapolis of the American Association. At the same time McKechnie said he was "sold" on the fielding, hustle and way "young Mike McCormick gets around. "If he can hit .300 he will be one of the greatest outfielders in the National league."

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Any time a couple of Casey Stengel's old pals, both scouts for other National league teams, leave the Boston Bees' training camp it will be all right with that manager. "We have about 50 players on the lot, but I'm sure they're giving ganders to no one else but Tony Cuccinello and Al Lopez and I'm doubly sure that they won't get 'em," he said.

Winter Haven, Fla.—No gazelle in the field, rookie Johnny Rucker is making Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants take notice of his hitting. He had batted "five for five" until Spud Chandler, of the Yankees, stopped him in the seventh. Another rookie, Morris Jones, of Jersey City, whom the Giants did not intend to bring to camp until ordered to by Commissioner Landis, tripled in the tenth to bring victory.

Anaheim, Calif.—Connie Mack is looking forward to a visit from Frankie Hayes, the Athletics' holdout catcher, who is on his way west to talk terms. Hayes left Freehold, New Jersey, Thursday and is due at Anaheim Sunday. He is the Athletics' only holdout and wants an increase over his $8,000 salary of last year.

Miami Beach, Fla.—Lack of hitting again is evident in the Phillies' training camp, much to Doc Prothro's sorrow. "If we just had one hitter," lamented the Phils' manager after seeing his team held to eleven hits in two games against Syracuse and Rochester.

COLORADO WINS HONORS

ATTACHMENT HELD ILLEGAL

Uniontown, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Attachment of wages for taxes due prior to 1939 is illegal, Judge W. Russell Carr held in a test case. He said a law enacted by the legislature last June to permit wage garnishments was not retroactive.

POWDER FIRMS MAY EXPAND DUE TO WAR ORDERS

Washington, March 16 (AP)—Heavy allied orders for explosives appeared likely today to produce an expansion of American powder manufacturing facilities comparable to that now taking place in the aircraft industry.

Great Britain and France, already contemplating purchases in excess of $100,000,000, were represented by munitions authorities as ready to finance new factories as they did in 1914-17, before the United States entered the World war.

The first evidence of this was the disclosure Thursday of a $1,427,000 Franco-British advance to the Atlas Powder Company of Wilmington, Delaware, to increase facilities for manufacture of TNT, the explosive used in artillery shells.

The concern was said to have contracted already for doubling the capacity of its plants in Missouri.

Uncertainties over the course of the European conflict and taxation difficulties with the Treasury have delayed much larger deals, it was said.

Manufacture of powder on this side of the Atlantic offers an advantage in that its weight for shipment is only about a twelfth of its component raw materials.

Arms experts estimated that British-French reserves were more than ample for the current "siege" stage of the war, but might be drained rapidly in major offensives requiring expenditure of ammunition at a World war consumption rate.

In two decades of peace, American munitions output has dwindled to a small fraction of the World war peak, when the United States was turning out as much powder and shells as the British and French combined and supplied much of their needs.

At present only two government and two private plants are equipped for powder production on a sizable scale. Factories for the manufacture of high explosives are not much more numerous. Should the country enter any war, War department plans call for immediate construction of many munitions plants to remedy these deficiencies.

Carlisle to Use Parking Meters

Voting 11 to 4, the Carlisle borough council at its March meeting on Thursday night approved installation of parking meters.

Present plans call for the purchase of a meter providing twelve minutes parking for one cent; twenty-four minutes for two cents and an hour's parking for a nickel.

A special meeting will be held by council on March 28 to hear results of the survey to be made by the meter firm, as well as to act on the new ordinance which will provide for use of the meters and enforcement. Report of a special committee had recommended installation of the meters in Hanover street between Pomfret and North streets and in High street between Bedford and West streets.

RULES JUSTICE MAY NOT HOLD OR SENTENCE JUVENILES

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Attorney General Claude T. Reno ruled Friday that no person under 18 can be held or sentenced by a magistrate or justice of the peace, even for violating the vehicle code.

On request of commissioner Lynn G. Adams of the state motor police, for a ruling, Reno held the juvenile laws made it necessary to take violators under 18 into juvenile court.

Col. Adams pointed out that "numerous violations of the vehicle code are committed by persons less than 18 years of age," since driver's licenses may be obtained by those over 16.

IT GROWS AND GROWS

Grove City, Pa., March 16 (AP)—A sacred lily of India that grows as much as two inches in 24 hours without water or earth around its bulb is attracting attention at the home of Mrs. C. L. Blake, of near Blacktown. The plant has a single petal 12 inches in diameter with a stalk two inches thick at the base. It failed to sprout in the ground but grew to a height of 37 inches on a window sill.

TO REVEAL SECRET PACTS

London, March 16 (AP)—The Daily Mail said today that Prime Minister Chamberlain would disclose secret assurances made two months ago to Norway and Sweden of allied support if, in giving help to Finland, they became involved in war with Soviet Russia or Germany.

The newspaper said Chamberlain would make the disclosure Tuesday in the house of commons.

CRASH TOLL REACHES 27

McAllen, Tex., March 16 (AP)—Two witnesses of Texas' worst crossing crash said Jose Ramon drove a truck carrying 42 Mexican laborers directly in front of a Missouri-Pacific train. Twenty-seven were killed and 15 injured, four so severely they may die. The crash occurred at Alamo, six miles east of this Rio Grande valley city, Thursday.

NO GADABOUT

Columbia, Pa., March 16 (AP)—All her life Mrs. Anna Donley, 79, has lived in this community on the banks of the Susquehanna river. But not until she wanted to attend a funeral a few days ago had she ever crossed the stream. "I've been too busy to gad around," she explained.

OH, SKINNY!

Pottsville, Pa., March 16 (AP)—A scientific vitamin diet in the public schools of nearby Llewellyn has added an average of two pounds each in 30 days to the weight of 400 pupils. The experiment was conducted by the federal government with surplus food products.

SENATE TO PASS BILL CURBING STATE WORKERS

Washington, March 16 (AP) — Senate opponents of the bill to curb political activities of state employes who are paid in whole or in part from federal funds gave up their two weeks' fight against the measure today.

Only the desire of many senators to get away from the capital for Saint Patrick's Day speaking engagements prevented a Saturday session and a final vote before nightfall.

With no senator dissenting, Democratic Leader Barkley obtained an agreement Friday night to vote on the controversial bill by 3 p. m. Monday.

Good-humored banter in the closing hours of Friday's debate gave surface indications, at least, that the democratic split which developed over the measure would not leave lasting bitterness like the party division in the historic fight over President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan.

Before deciding on Monday's deadline for a final vote, the senate killed, 52 to 31, a proposal by Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) that the bill be returned to the elections committee for further study.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), leader of the opposition, told the chamber after the vote on recommital that "we are at the end of our rope."

"We are ready to march down that last long mile," he said with a show of sadness. Then, hanging his head like a condemned criminal, he added softly: "I am ready to go."

Amid gallery laughter, Minton continued:

"There was a time when I wanted to see the anti-lynching bill attached to this legislation to lynch it, but not any more. I have a kind heart, and I don't want to do to the bill what it would do to the democratic party."

(Minton and other senators had contended that the measure would destroy democratic state organizations and thus aid republicans in the coming presidential campaign.)

Senator Chandler (D-Ky.), referring to the split among democrats, told Minton that "we are ready to welcome you back after this bitter cup has passed from your hands."

Republicans, while giving almost solid support to the pending bill, have let democrats take the lead in championing it.

FRED HAMILTON GRANTED AWARD

Frederick C. Hamilton, of Lancaster, received the highest award that can be given a Gettysburg college athlete Friday evening when he was given the Charles Beachem award for outstanding merit in the field of athletics.

The announcement was made at the annual Athlete's Night program held by the Student Christian Association of Gettysburg college. E. E. "Tad" Wieman, head football coach of Princeton university, was the principal speaker.

The award is given each year to the senior athlete who also meets requirements for scholastic attainment and Christian leadership.

Hamilton, a graduate of Haverford high school, was the sparkplug and captain of Gettysburg's Eastern Pennsylvania collegiate championship football team last fall and received recognition of the Associated Press's second all-state eleven. In addition, he has been a member of the Bullet court team and baseball nine for the last three seasons.

An honor student scholastically, Hamilton has also been active in other extra-curricular activities as president of the men's student council, a member of the Gettysburg honor society, class president his freshman year, and president of Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity.

HAZLETON FACES LOWER MERION

What is regarded as "the game" of the year in state scholastic basketball circles will be played tonight at Philadelphia when Hazleton and Lower Merion clash in one of the four inter-district elimination tussles leading to the state P. I. A. A. championship.

A capacity crowd of 10,000 is expected to push into the University of Pennsylvania Palestra to see the game nearly everyone has been waiting for since Lower Merion upset Hazleton, 20-17, at Hershey last year.

Most observers believe the winner will succeed Homestead as the state titleholder. Hughie McGeehan, Hazleton coach, is trying for his fourth state crown while Bill Anderson, Lower Merion mentor, is seeking to enter the state finals for the fifth time. Only once did Lower Merion win the coveted laurels, however.

The other eastern Pennsylvania inter-district clash will be held at Kingston between Luzerne, district two, and Shinglehouse, class "B" outfit that scored a major upset by beating Shamokin, class "A" winner for the district four crown.

In the west, Brookville, champions of district nine, meet district ten's titleholders, Farrell, at Greenville, while at Pittsburgh Conemaugh Township, district five, encounters Pittsburgh Fifth Avenue, kings of district eight.

Clark's Summit succeeded Dalton as champion of district 12 Friday night by beating Hallstead, 37-23, while Conemaugh retained its district six laurels, defeating Ferndale, 35-23.

Training Camp Briefs

(By the Associated Press)

San Diego, Calif.—Some major league clubs shuffle their lineups for grapefruit league contests, but not the Pittsburgh Pirates. Manager Frank Frisch says, "we have so much stuff to try out," the Pirate first string will be kept intact in all games against major league opponents. Substitutes will get a chance against the minor leaguers, though.

Sarasota, Fla.—Manager Joe Cronin, who has been suffering from a cold, expected to get into the Boston Red Sox lineup at shortstop today as the club opened the home "grapefruit" season against the Cincinnati Reds. Dominic DiMaggio declared his leg felt so good he would be back in uniform early next week.

San Antonio, Tex.—The lineup that may open the 1940 season for the St. Louis Browns was on parade today against the Tulsa Oilers. Manager Fred Haney nominated Elden Auker, Roxie Lawson and Nate Andrews as hurlers; George McQuinn, Don Heffner, Alan Strange and Harlond Clift for the infield; Joe Gallagher, Chet Laabs and Myril Hoag in the outfield, and Sam Harshany catcher.

Sarasota, Fla.—Paring of the roster has begun for the Cincinnati Reds with an announcement by Manager Bill McKechnie optioning Catcher Dick West, Outfielder Art Luce and First Baseman Joe Mack to Indianapolis of the American Association. At the same time McKechnie said he was "sold" on the fielding, hustle and way "young Mike McCormick gets around. "If he can hit .300 he will be one of the greatest outfielders in the National league."

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Any time a couple of Casey Stengel's old pals, both scouts for other National league teams, leave the Boston Bees' training camp it will be all right with that manager. "We have about 50 players on the lot, but I'm sure they're giving ganders to no one else but Tony Cuccinello and Al Lopez and I'm doubly sure that they won't get 'em," he said.

Winter Haven, Fla.—No gazelle in the field, rookie Johnny Rucker is making Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants take notice of his hitting. He had batted "five for five" until Spud Chandler, of the Yankees, stopped him in the seventh. Another rookie, Morris Jones, of Jersey City, whom the Giants did not intend to bring to camp until ordered to by Commissioner Landis, tripled in the tenth to bring victory.

Anaheim, Calif.—Connie Mack is looking forward to a visit from Frankie Hayes, the Athletics' holdout catcher, who is on his way west to talk terms. Hayes left Freehold, New Jersey, Thursday and is due at Anaheim Sunday. He is the Athletics' only holdout and wants an increase over his $8,000 salary of last year.

Miami Beach, Fla.—Lack of hitting again is evident in the Phillies' training camp, much to Doc Prothro's sorrow. "If we just had one hitter," lamented the Phils' manager after seeing his team held to eleven hits in two games against Syracuse and Rochester.

ATTACHMENT HELD ILLEGAL

Uniontown, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Attachment of wages for taxes due prior to 1939 is illegal, Judge W. Russell Carr held in a test case. He said a law enacted by the legislature last June to permit wage garnishments was not retroactive.

POWDER FIRMS MAY EXPAND DUE TO WAR ORDERS

Washington, March 16 (AP)—Heavy allied orders for explosives appeared likely today to produce an expansion of American powder manufacturing facilities comparable to that now taking place in the aircraft industry.

Great Britain and France, already contemplating purchases in excess of $100,000,000, were represented by munitions authorities as ready to finance new factories as they did in 1914-17, before the United States entered the World war.

The first evidence of this was the disclosure Thursday of a $1,427,000 Franco-British advance to the Atlas Powder Company of Wilmington, Delaware, to increase facilities for manufacture of TNT, the explosive used in artillery shells.

The concern was said to have contracted already for doubling the capacity of its plants in Missouri.

Uncertainties over the course of the European conflict and taxation difficulties with the Treasury have delayed much larger deals, it was said.

Manufacture of powder on this side of the Atlantic offers an advantage in that its weight for shipment is only about a twelfth of its component raw materials.

Arms experts estimated that British-French reserves were more than ample for the current "siege" stage of the war, but might be drained rapidly in major offensives requiring expenditure of ammunition at a World war consumption rate.

In two decades of peace, American munitions output has dwindled to a small fraction of the World war peak, when the United States was turning out as much powder and shells as the British and French combined and supplied much of their needs.

At present only two government and two private plants are equipped for powder production on a sizable scale. Factories for the manufacture of high explosives are not much more numerous. Should the country enter any war, War department plans call for immediate construction of many munitions plants to remedy these deficiencies.

Carlisle to Use Parking Meters

Voting 11 to 4, the Carlisle borough council at its March meeting on Thursday night approved installation of parking meters.

Present plans call for the purchase of a meter providing twelve minutes parking for one cent; twenty-four minutes for two cents and an hour's parking for a nickel.

A special meeting will be held by council on March 28 to hear results of the survey to be made by the meter firm, as well as to act on the new ordinance which will provide for use of the meters and enforcement. Report of a special committee had recommended installation of the meters in Hanover street between Pomfret and North streets and in High street between Bedford and West streets.

RULES JUSTICE MAY NOT HOLD OR SENTENCE JUVENILES

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Attorney General Claude T. Reno ruled Friday that no person under 18 can be held or sentenced by a magistrate or justice of the peace, even for violating the vehicle code.

On request of commissioner Lynn G. Adams of the state motor police, for a ruling, Reno held the juvenile laws made it necessary to take violators under 18 into juvenile court.

Col. Adams pointed out that "numerous violations of the vehicle code are committed by persons less than 18 years of age," since driver's licenses may be obtained by those over 16.

IT GROWS AND GROWS

Grove City, Pa., March 16 (AP)—A sacred lily of India that grows as much as two inches in 24 hours without water or earth around its bulb is attracting attention at the home of Mrs. C. L. Blake, of near Blacktown. The plant has a single petal 12 inches in diameter with a stalk two inches thick at the base. It failed to sprout in the ground but grew to a height of 37 inches on a window sill.

TO REVEAL SECRET PACTS

London, March 16 (AP)—The Daily Mail said today that Prime Minister Chamberlain would disclose secret assurances made two months ago to Norway and Sweden of allied support if, in giving help to Finland, they became involved in war with Soviet Russia or Germany.

The newspaper said Chamberlain would make the disclosure Tuesday in the house of commons.

CRASH TOLL REACHES 27

McAllen, Tex., March 16 (AP)—Two witnesses of Texas' worst crossing crash said Jose Ramon drove a truck carrying 42 Mexican laborers directly in front of a Missouri-Pacific train. Twenty-seven were killed and 15 injured, four so severely they may die. The crash occurred at Alamo, six miles east of this Rio Grande valley city, Thursday.

NO GADABOUT

Columbia, Pa., March 16 (AP)—All her life Mrs. Anna Donley, 79, has lived in this community on the banks of the Susquehanna river. But not until she wanted to attend a funeral a few days ago had she ever crossed the stream. "I've been too busy to gad around," she explained.

OH, SKINNY!

TELL US YOUR
ELECTRIC POWER PROBLEMS

OUR JOB of furnishing Electric Service does not end with the delivery of ample electric current for instant use. This is especially true among the 2,500 industries, which are so vital to the prosperity of the 3,000 square miles of territory we serve.

Our Power Engineers are at the free disposal of those industries. In planning and installing new power equipment. In checking present equipment to see if its electric power application can be improved and made more efficient and economical.

In checking rates to be sure the customer is getting the best advantage of power for his particular requirements. Even in assisting with such problems as combustion and heating—fuel analysis—steam distribution—air control and air conditioning.

The efficiency of this man and his fellow-workers may be handicapped by incorrect lighting or inconvenient plant arrangement or improper application of power to machinery. Just one of many problems our free Power Engineering service helps to solve.

This advisory service doesn't cost our Industrial Customers a penny. Many of them are availing themselves of it. If you have not taken advantage of this service, just 'phone or drop us a line whether you have a power problem or not. There may be something we can do for you.

2 Groundhog Lodges Argue Merits of Their Predictions

Quarryville, Pa., March 16 (AP)—The most hardened woodchuck in Pennsylvania probably would be quaking in his den today if he could hear the fuss his brothers have stirred up between the state's two rival groundhog lodges over the February 2 weather forecasts.

Backers of the Gobbler's Knob groundhog, which scored a bull's eye with a forecast of six more weeks of winter, started it when they demanded a public acknowledgment that the rival Quarryville seer is an "odiferous animal with stripes on its back."

George W. Hensel, Jr., hibernating governor of Quarryville's Slumbering Groundhog lodge, which predicted six weeks of winter "minus," took it on the chin and retaliated by declaring that the Gobbler's Knob thought the sun shone on them exclusively February 2.

"Hitler, with similar conceit," said Hensel, "imagines the favor of the gods his exclusively. As for stripes, we are not color blind. We are able to discern white stripes on odiferous animals, and yellow stripes on mortals."

The hibernating governor intimated, too, that his lodge's predictions went a little deeper than those of the groundhog followers at Gobbler's Knob. Said he:

"As a matter of fact, prognostications of the Slumbering Groundhog lodge were based on the sun's rays and the groundhog's interpretation of them."

NO CASH, NO LIGHT

MEMORIES

SOME one once said that God gave us memories that we might have roses in December. In some parts of the world there are always roses in bloom! But what the author meant was that our memories kept them fresh within our hearts and in our appreciation.

Happy are the memories of our childhood, especially to those of us who were so lucky as to be born and reared in a small town or upon the farm. The Sunday night mush-and-milk repast. The colorful red and white checker designed table cloth. The old watering trough down on Main Street. The church sheds full of teams on Sunday—and the lingering toll of the bell that called folks to worship.

The street lamps that flickered from their gas jets at night; and the one who lit them, going from one to the other with his lighted torch. The sap, at Springtime, dripping into the pails for maple syrup and sugar later when boiled down. The glow of the coal in the big base-burner on a Winter's day. The bath in the big wash tub—with each awaiting his turn on Saturday night!

The town marshal, with his big star showing on his breast. The smell of drugs, long before reaching the drugstore. Drugstores in those days! The harness shop, with its fragrant leather and the boss at his bench drawing his two needles to and from in rhythmic time in the mending of a harness. The smell of crackers and apples in barrels in the grocery store. And the muddy streets after a rain—something not so pleasant to recall!

Then there were the church socials, with their pungent coffee smell that filled the room, and big cakes and pies that "the ladies" had so lovingly prepared. What repasts! And all to help pay for the preacher's salary!

There was no radio, no electric lights—excepting in rich homes, and people laughed at such a thing as a carriage without a horse! As for ever riding comfortably through the air, and sending our letters that way, such an idea was just the dream of someone who only had a fine imagination!

What a day and what a world it is in which we now live—and yet there are those of us who would like to return to some of our memories—if only for a day and a night!

Leap Before You Look

—By PEGGY O'MORE—

YESTERDAY: Tomi hears Allen begin his defense of her, then hurries back to the farm. She is deeply distressed that no one has told her about the will contest, and doesn't know whether or not to trust Allen. Later, Pierre comes to her.

Chapter 17

Happy Birthday

"We told Bartell, Abe and Dotty and I that it was but fair you should hear everything. But he—one cannot talk to him. He knows everything!"

"Pierre—" Tomi's voice was husky—"what happened? About the will, I mean. Did they—that is, did I lose?"

"No, no, you could not lose against such stupidity. The jury went out, but only to turn around and come back in. And then, when the plea was dismissed, the foreman went to the big puff-adder—"

"The Major?" asked Tomi.

"Yes, and he said: 'The idea of a man like you trying to cheat a young girl out of her heritage.'"

Tomi sat up. "What ever did the Major answer?"

Pierre gave one short laugh. "I thought perhaps he would burst, the way he swelled up, and then he said, 'My dear sir, you do not understand. We Tolands are only attempting to save her heritage from that young rapscallion who poses as a lawyer. Watch my word. He'll wrap her around his finger, cause her to lose the farm, and then he will come into its possession.'"

"Oh," whimpered Tomi, and didn't know whether the sharp pang was for her regret that the Major was lying, or because Bartell might have "wrapped her around his finger" had he half tried.

"And the foreman said," continued Pierre, "That poor child, she is between the devil and the deep blue sea.'"

Pierre's arms were around her now, warm comforting arms. "That, cherie, gives me the heart to say a little of what I would say to you after I have proven myself."

Tomi looked up, her eyes wide with wonder.

"You need someone who has your interests at heart to advise you. Will you let me do that? Today I can say only I love you. Another day I will say more."

Tomi didn't answer. She didn't want to answer. She turned her head towards his shoulder and rested there a moment. Pierre was so comforting, so understanding. What more could life offer?

She looked up as though to question the gray clouds, and there, on the bank above her stood Allen Bartell, face white and grim, hands clenched at his sides.

"The Sheik in action," he spat, and wheeled away.

Tomi jumped up. She stood, a slim scarlet figure, against the gray of the water, her dark head held proudly.

Allen was not in sight when they reached the kitchen yard. Mrs. Dougherty came running out of the house. "What are you doing in a sun-suit with a storm blowing in?" she demanded.

"I went to sleep in the sun," Tomi defended.

"But look at you; your robe is wet and your sandals. Are you trying to catch pneumonia?"

Tomi started to answer and sneezed instead.

"There, what did I tell you? Now get into a hot tub while I fix a hot toddy. Abe!" the housekeeper's voice rang out angrily. "Abe, get into the house and draw a tub of hot water. No, you don't have to bathe again today. It's Tomi, she has a cold. Listen to her."

And, obligingly, Tomi sneezed again.

She came in from her hot bath to find her bed warmed, a brisk fire going in the tiny bedroom grate, a hot drink on the night table.

"I knew something like this would happen if we left you alone," scolded Dotty, thrusting Tomi's arms into a warm bed-jacket. "Pierre just told me you knew about the contest. I told Allen you'd find out. I don't know what makes that boy so stupid. There are times," she continued earnestly, "when I wish I'd left him stick in the ram-barrel, head down as he was."

Cold Feet

Tomi had to laugh a little. "What was he doing there?" she asked.

"I never learned whether he was admiring his reflection or listening to his own voice, but I paddled the one end before I rescued the other."

Tomi snuggled down in the pillows. She was warm. This lovely room was still hers. It glowed with soft lights; lamps like pastel flowers; firelight touching the first splash of raindrops on the window-pane with amber.

"Allen insisted that if we loved you, we'd go to court and say nothing to you," Dotty continued. "I thought he was trying to protect you from publicity and from seeing your father's relatives make Rocky Mountain canaries of themselves."

Abe rapped at the door and entered shyly. "Happy birthday," he offered timidly. "Got you a little present. The fat fellow, Major he's called, let out it was your birthday."

He laid a heavy box on the side of the bed. Eagerly Tomi opened it, to find a set of turquoise pottery.

"Abe, it's exquisite! You have wonderful taste."

Abe shuffled uneasily. "I heard you said you wanted something to serve tea with outdoors," he explained.

Mrs. Dougherty, who had disappeared, returned with her arms filled with packages. There were books on ranaculture from Pierre, and a book of sonnets. Perfume from Dottie. The Morrises had remembered the date with a box of her favorite chocolates; the office with books, candy and handkerchiefs.

She unwrapped one Chicago postmarked package carefully. Mrs. Dougherty took one look. "Oh, my—I beg your pardon," she gasped, as Tomi disclosed a pair of knit wool bed-slippers, then put her head down on them and wept.

"Here, here, none of that," stormed the housekeeper. "They're not worth crying over."

"B-but, I-I'm c-crying because I'm happy," sniffed Tomi. "Nobody but Great-aunt Hannah could make anything as ugly. And she knows . . . I always have cold feet in Chicago."

"You're in California now," snapped Mrs. Dougherty.

Tomi shook her head. "She thought of me," she tried to explain. "She "

Mrs. Dougherty sat down, heavily. "Those Tolands," she sighed, "they cut your throat with one hand and knit you sleepers with the other. They're worth a cool million and they send you a pair of knitted things you could buy for ninety-eight cents."

Tomi waved her hands helplessly. One had to be a Toland to understand. She could picture Great-aunt Hannah, wearing out her eyesight—she refused to wear glasses—over these slippers. There she would sit, straight as a ramrod, fingers, needles and tongue, all flying.

Maybe the Major hadn't been lying. Maybe they thought they were saving her heritage by contesting the will which would give everything to Allen if she failed.

She burrowed around in the box for a card. There it was in the very bottom, the handwriting slanted. "Hope you have sense enough to wear these, and remember, kerosene and lard for your chest when you take cold. You're given to colds."

Tomi giggled. Blessed Aunt Hannah! These sleepers warmed her heart instead of her toes.

"I'm going to get up now and celebrate," she announced.

"Oh, no you're not," countered Dotty. "Your temperature is up a point. You'll celebrate in bed with a tray."

"By the way—" she tried to appear nonchalant—"there's another gift downstairs. It was too heavy to carry up. It's a typewriter."

"Here's the card that came on it," offered Dtty. "It's pretty, red and ivory—the machine, I mean."

Tomi took the gay birthday card. Across it was written: "To keep you in practice, Allen."

At first she thought, how considerate, then her eyes narrowed. To keep her in practice. Then he thought she'd be looking for another stenographic job when the frog season was over.

"I'll show him," she promised herself, "and I'll use the typewriter to help me."

Tomi was allowed to look at the birthday cake. Huge, piled with butter-cream roses and well wishes. She was allowed to listen to Dotty repeat the menu. And then she was given a poached egg and a tall glass of hot milk.

She didn't mind her isolation, particularly. She wasn't ready to face Pierre. She must think of him first, think of him now as a prospective husband, not as a ranaculturist.

For a moment she sat drowsily listening to the waves crash on the beach, the quick rush of a shower on the roof, the splash of raindrops on the windowpane.

The storm outside made the comfort inside more vivid by comparison. The walls of this, her very own room with the furniture placed where she wanted it, were like the arms of those friends downstairs.

Carefully she reached down to slip the knitted sleepers over her toes.

And now to Pierre. Pierre loved her. That was a heart warming thought. Pierre was handsome, all of the girls in Allen's crowd thought so. He wasn't dashing and thrilling, but he was so sane and sure. That is what one needed in a lifetime partner.

There are two kinds of love, she reasoned. One was the heady, reckless kind that lifted you to the skies, then cast you down, broken. The other was a calm, growing emotion, based on companionship and mutual respect. It endured forever.

Pierre would make a wonderful husband for her. He seemed as passionately fond of the farm as she was. Together they would make it thrive.

"We'll turn it into a tiny farm like my grandmother had," she whispered. "The kind of a farm Julie told me about, with chickens, a pig, a cow, vegetables . . . and, of course, here we'll have frogs."

Pierre could look after the farm, and she'd look after the house, Pierre and Abe—and Dotty, of course.

"Pierre . . . In blue smock and beret," she murmured sleepily. She could visualize him hoeing rows of green things.

Pierre was still in the garden when she went to sleep. She hadn't been able to picture him in the house, as a husband who would issue the orders she should obey.

For two days, Tomi was kept in her room by the domineering Dotty. Part of the time she studied the books on ranaculture, part of the time studied telephone directories of the nearby cities, and part of the time she sketched skeleton letterheads.

State's Marine Cadets Get Training Ship

Philadelphia, March 16 (AP)—Sailing time is approaching again for Pennsylvania's marine cadets—and this year they'll train on a cruiser known as the United States Navy's "Honeymoon Ship."

Eighty-four Pennsylvania youths, preparing for careers in the merchant marine, will set out from Philadelphia April 5 aboard the light cruiser Omaha for a month-long Carribean cruise.

The Navy department has granted the use of the cruiser for training purposes by the Nautical School of the Delaware Navigation commission.

It will substitute for the 42-year-old schoolship Annapolis, condemned some time ago by the bureau of navigation and consigned to the scrap heap.

The Omaha came into prominence last June when she headed home after 15 months in European waters. Coming to America at the same time were seven French brides of members of the crew, married through special permits.

Left weeping on the dock at Nice, France, were fiancees of eleven other members of the crew, unable to wed because French law requires foreigners to live a year in France before marriage. Residence on a warship doesn't count.

While stationed on the other side of the Atlantic, the Omaha at one time stood by to evacuate American citizens from Barcelona, Spain, at the approach of Franco's forces. But that was not necessary.

WILL ON BILLHEAD

Philadelphia, March 16 (AP)—A will written in longhand on a billhead has been admitted to probate here. It gives the $19,500 estate of Mrs. Mary J. Ballantine to her daughter, Gertrude.

PERPETUAL SMOKER

Carbondale, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Joseph Lindsey, retired blacksmith, observed his 91st birthday anniversary with the comment: "Yes, sir, I smoke my pipe only once a day—that's all day long."

Backgrounds of Adams County

By B. F. MACPHERSON

No. 132 — For You — The Dobbin House

TODAY — at the very start — we wish to add a few details to our sketch of the Revolutionary soldier, Lieutenant George Sheakley, given last week. These notes were furnished by an "out-of-town" reader, a descendant of the said Lieutenant Sheakley.

In the first place Margaret McCurdy, the wife of George Sheakley, died on May 12, 1825, surviving her husband thirteen years. Our informant also tells us that it is quite probable that she, Margaret McCurdy Sheakley, is buried beside her husband.

Nancy Sheakley, the daughter of George and Margaret (McCurdy) Sheakley, was married by the Rev John Herbst in November of 1827 to William Bailey. After their marriage the couple moved to Larue, Ohio, where they are buried. William and Nancy (Sheakley) were the parents of the following children:

1. Findley Bailey — Captain in Co. "K" of the First Pennsylvania Reserves — killed before the battle of Gettysburg.

2. Rufus Bailey — became a lawyer.

3. Caroline Bailey intermarried with the Rev W. E. Crebs, a graduate of Gettysburg college and Seminary.

4. Florinda Bailey intermarried with ———? Van Arsdall.

5. Eliza Bailey intermarried with ———? Shaw.

6. Harriet Bailey.

Some of the Sheakley graves were moved to the Evergreen cemetery. We do not have a list of these — but hope to secure them in the near future. When we do so we will give them in this column. It may be that they will 'throw more light" on the Sheakley family.

* * *

IN column No 112 (November 27, 1939) and No. 113 (November 28, 1939) we wrote of John and Charles Stewart, soldiers of the Revolution. Today we add an interesting note. (Pennsylvania Archives — 5th Series — Volume 2 — Page 783), concerning John Stewart (First Regiment — Pennsylvania Continental Line), as follows:

"I, John Stewart, do swear, that I am not a deserter from the British army, or from the army or navy of the United States; That I renounce, refuse, and abjure the king of Great Britain, his heirs and successors; and that I will be true and faithful to the United States of America, and that I will faithfully serve them in the Pennsylvania line, during the present war; and that I will be obedient to the orders of Congress, and the officers by them set over me, according to the Continental articles of war, and the establishment of the corps in which I am now enlisted. So help me God.

"Sworn before me this 6th day of August 1782.

"Lancaster Co.

Jacob Kagey"

An oath, such as the one quoted above, took care of all emergencies and left few, if any, loopholes of escape. Evidently John Stewart was in Lancaster county in service at the time the pledge or oath was taken.

NEXT we take up the question of the Dobbin House. You can see by our title that we intend to make some mention of this old structure. We have given the story before, but for the benefit of our readers who may have missed our earlier sketches we make it a "twice-told" tale.

The Dobbin House was built by the Rev. Alexander Dobbin, one of the early Presbyterian ministers in this section. The Rev. Dobbin was born in Londonderry, Ireland, February 27, 1742, and died at his home near Gettysburg June 1, 1809. He was educated in Glasgow, and ordained in the Reformed Presbytery of Ireland and was sent as a missionary to this country, coming direct to what is now Adams county, and taking charge of the "Rock Creek" congregation that had "called" for him. When the Rev. Mr. Murray, pastor of the "Old Hill" church, near the border of Carroll's Tract left, Mr. Dobbin became the pastor of that church also, dividing his time between the two congregations.

In the early days of his residence in this section the Rev. Mr. Dobbin "took up" a tract of land, near what is now the southern portion of the borough, and built thereon, in 1776, a large stone house. From 1776 to 1801 the minister maintained in this house, the first classical school west of the Susquehanna. Many men, prominent in their day, were students here.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the exterior of the Dobbin House, but few of us ever had the opportunity to explore the interior. There are twelve large rooms, not counting the "spring room." The majority of the woodwork is oak. There are wide floor boards, mantles, old oaken partitions, deep windows with small panes, doors on hinges handmade by the blacksmith. Rafters are hewn logs, and some of the joists underneath the floor still have the bark on. There are unsealed ceilings, seven fire places running into the great stone chimneys, flanking the house at either end. In the kitchen is a huge fire place where the crane of another day hung. A stairway with an old-fashioned bannister worn smooth by countless numbers of hands — all this in an excellent state of preservation, with a sparkling spring of water flowing under a flagstone in the "spring room."

Undoubtedly the Dobbin House is our most historic colonial structure. It should be preserved, in order that the glory and pride of its day and generation may never fade. We need such structures to remind us of a day that is past, of brave men and gallant women who had the courage to build a new world on the soil of a bloody frontier. Would you be willing to support a move to restore and preserve the Dobbin House?

POSTMAN TAKES HOLIDAY

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Rudolph K. Fortna continued his rounds of downtown business houses today after resting his feet long enough to receive the plaudits of 100 of his "customers." The merchants he has served 34 years gave him a banquet Thursday night, since retirement is only two weeks away. He donned his blue-gray uniform for the first time in 1900.

Reformed Church Merger Approved

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Merger of the East Petersburg and Mountville congregations of the Evangelical and Reformed church was approved at a meeting of the Lancaster synod council here.

The Rev. Paul Nagy, Jr., who has been pastor at Mountville, was elected pastor of the new charge.

The pulpit of the Millersburg church was declared vacant, with the resignation of the Rev. John H. Sando. (The Rev. Mr. Sando will go to Bethany church in York. He is a son of the Rev. Edwin Sando, of Hanover.)

The council also accepted the resignation of the Rev. Richard J. Keen, of First church, Steelton, effective April 2, and released him to the Lehigh synod.

TO OPEN SHOE PLANT IN NEW OXFORD

David C. Bloser, West Myrtle street, Littlestown, and Earl Yungel, Mechanicsburg, will open a shoe factory in New Oxford next week. The factory, which will occupy a portion of the Livingston shoe factory building, will be known as the New Oxford Baby Shoe factory. The new factory, which will be under the supervision of Mr. Bloser, will manufacture infants' shoes exclusively. Mr. Bloser was formerly superintendent of the Littonian Shoe factory, of Littlestown. The new company will start with twelve employes and will gradually increase the number. Mr. Livingston will continue to operate his shoe factory in another part of the building as at present.

2 Groundhog Lodges Argue Merits of Their Predictions

Quarryville, Pa., March 16 (AP)—The most hardened woodchuck in Pennsylvania probably would be quaking in his den today if he could hear the fuss his brothers have stirred up between the state's two rival groundhog lodges over the February 2 weather forecasts.

Backers of the Gobbler's Knob groundhog, which scored a bull's eye with a forecast of six more weeks of winter, started it when they demanded a public acknowledgment that the rival Quarryville seer is an "odiferous animal with stripes on its back."

George W. Hensel, Jr., hibernating governor of Quarryville's Slumbering Groundhog lodge, which predicted six weeks of winter "minus," took it on the chin and retaliated by declaring that the Gobbler's Knob thought the sun shone on them exclusively February 2.

"Hitler, with similar conceit," said Hensel, "imagines the favor of the gods his exclusively. As for stripes, we are not color blind. We are able to discern white stripes on odiferous animals, and yellow stripes on mortals."

The hibernating governor intimated, too, that his lodge's predictions went a little deeper than those of the groundhog followers at Gobbler's Knob. Said he:

"As a matter of fact, prognostications of the Slumbering Groundhog lodge were based on the sun's rays and the groundhog's interpretation of them."

NO CASH, NO LIGHT

MEMORIES

SOME one once said that God gave us memories that we might have roses in December. In some parts of the world there are always roses in bloom! But what the author meant was that our memories kept them fresh within our hearts and in our appreciation.

Happy are the memories of our childhood, especially to those of us who were so lucky as to be born and reared in a small town or upon the farm. The Sunday night mush-and-milk repast. The colorful red and white checker designed table cloth. The old watering trough down on Main Street. The church sheds full of teams on Sunday—and the lingering toll of the bell that called folks to worship.

The street lamps that flickered from their gas jets at night; and the one who lit them, going from one to the other with his lighted torch. The sap, at Springtime, dripping into the pails for maple syrup and sugar later when boiled down. The glow of the coal in the big base-burner on a Winter's day. The bath in the big wash tub—with each awaiting his turn on Saturday night!

The town marshal, with his big star showing on his breast. The smell of drugs, long before reaching the drugstore. Drugstores in those days! The harness shop, with its fragrant leather and the boss at his bench drawing his two needles to and from in rhythmic time in the mending of a harness. The smell of crackers and apples in barrels in the grocery store. And the muddy streets after a rain—something not so pleasant to recall!

Then there were the church socials, with their pungent coffee smell that filled the room, and big cakes and pies that "the ladies" had so lovingly prepared. What repasts! And all to help pay for the preacher's salary!

There was no radio, no electric lights—excepting in rich homes, and people laughed at such a thing as a carriage without a horse! As for ever riding comfortably through the air, and sending our letters that way, such an idea was just the dream of someone who only had a fine imagination!

What a day and what a world it is in which we now live—and yet there are those of us who would like to return to some of our memories—if only for a day and a night!

Leap Before You Look

By PEGGY O'MORE

YESTERDAY: Tomi hears Allen begin his defense of her, then hurries back to the farm. She is deeply distressed that no one has told her about the will contest, and doesn't know whether or not to trust Allen. Later, Pierre comes to her.

Chapter 17

Happy Birthday

"We told Bartell, Abe and Dotty and I that it was but fair you should hear everything. But he—one cannot talk to him. He knows everything!"

"Pierre—" Tomi's voice was husky—"what happened? About the will, I mean. Did they—that is, did I lose?"

"No, no, you could not lose against such stupidity. The jury went out, but only to turn around and come back in. And then, when the plea was dismissed, the foreman went to the big puff-adder—"

"The Major?" asked Tomi.

"Yes, and he said: 'The idea of a man like you trying to cheat a young girl out of her heritage.'"

Tomi sat up. "What ever did the Major answer?"

Pierre gave one short laugh. "I thought perhaps he would burst, the way he swelled up, and then he said, 'My dear sir, you do not understand. We Tolands are only attempting to save her heritage from that young rapscallion who poses as a lawyer. Watch my word. He'll wrap her around his finger, cause her to lose the farm, and then he will come into its possession.'"

"Oh," whimpered Tomi, and didn't know whether the sharp pang was for her regret that the Major was lying, or because Bartell might have "wrapped her around his finger" had be half tried.

"And the foreman said," continued Pierre, "That poor child, she is between the devil and the deep blue sea.'"

Pierre's arms were around her now, warm comforting arms. "That, cherie, gives me the heart to say a little of what I would say to you after I have proven myself."

Tomi looked up, her eyes wide with wonder.

"You need someone who has your interests at heart to advise you. Will you let me do that? Today I can say only I love you. Another day I will say more."

Tomi didn't answer. She didn't want to answer. She turned her head towards his shoulder and rested there a moment. Pierre was so comforting, so understanding. What more could life offer?

She looked up as though to question the gray clouds, and there, on the bank above her stood Allen Bartell, face white and grim, hands clenched at his sides.

"The Sheik in action," he spat, and wheeled away.

Tomi jumped up. She stood, a slim scarlet figure, against the gray of the water, her dark head held proudly.

Allen was not in sight when they reached the kitchen yard. Mrs. Dougherty came running out of the house. "What are you doing in a sun-suit with a storm blowing in?" she demanded.

"I went to sleep in the sun." Tomi defended.

"But look at you; your robe is wet and your sandals. Are you trying to catch pneumonia?"

Tomi started to answer and sneezed instead.

"There, what did I tell you? Now get into a hot tub while I fix a hot toddy. Abe!" the housekeeper's voice rang out angrily. "Abe, get into the house and draw a tub of hot water. No, you don't have to bathe again today. It's Tomi, she has a cold. Listen to her."

And, obligingly, Tomi sneezed again.

She came in from her hot bath to find her bed warmed, a brisk fire going in the tiny bedroom grate, a hot drink on the night table.

"I knew something like this would happen if we left you alone," scolded Dotty, thrusting Tomi's arms into a warm bed-jacket. "Pierre just told me you knew about the contest. I told Allen you'd find out. I don't know what makes that boy so stupid. There are times," she continued earnestly, "when I wish I'd left him stick in the rain-barrel, head down as he was."

Cold Feet

Tomi had to laugh a little. "What was he doing there?" she asked.

"I never learned whether he was admiring his reflection or listening to his own voice, but I paddled the one end before I rescued the other."

Tomi snuggled down in the pillows. She was warm. This lovely room was still hers. It glowed with soft lights; lamps like pastel flowers; firelight touching the first splash of raindrops on the window-pane with amber.

"Allen insisted that if we loved you, we'd go to court and say nothing to you," Dotty continued. "I thought he was trying to protect you from publicity and from seeing your father's relatives make Rocky Mountain canaries of themselves."

Abe rapped at the door and entered shyly. "Happy birthday," he offered timidly. "Got you a little present. The fat fellow, Major he's called, let out it was your birthday."

He laid a heavy box on the side of the bed. Eagerly Tomi opened it, to find a set of turquoise pottery.

"Abe, it's exquisite! You have wonderful taste."

Abe shuffilled uneasily. "I heard you said you wanted something to serve tea with outdoors," he explained.

Mrs. Dougherty, who had disappeared, returned with her arms filled with packages. There were books on ranaculture from Pierre, and a book of sonnets. Perfume from Dottie. The Morrises had remembered the date with a box of her favorite chocolates; the office with books, candy and handkerchiefs.

She unwrapped one Chicago postmarked package carefully. Mrs. Dougherty took one look. "Oh, my—I beg your pardon," she gasped, as Tomi disclosed a pair of knit wool bed-slippers, then put her head down on them and wept.

"Here, here, none of that," stormed the housekeeper. "They're not worth crying over."

"B-but, I-I'm c-crying because I'm happy," sniffed Tomi. "Nobody but Great-aunt Hannah could make anything as ugly. And she knows . . . I always have cold feet in Chicago."

"You're in California now," snapped Mrs. Dougherty.

Tomi shook her head. "She thought of me," she tried to explain. "She . . ."

Mrs. Dougherty sat down, heavily. "Those Tolands," she sighed, "they cut your throat with one hand and knit you sleepers with the other. They're worth a cool million and they send you a pair of knitted things you could buy for ninety-eight cents."

Tomi waved her hands helplessly. One had to be a Toland to understant. She could picture Great-aunt Hannah, wearing out her eyesight—she refused to wear glasses—over these slippers. There she would sit, straight as a ramrod, fingers, needles and tongue, all flying.

Maybe the Major hadn't been lying. Maybe they thought they were saving her heritage by contesting the will which would give everything to Allen if she failed.

She burrowed around in the box for a card. There it was in the very bottom, the handwriting stilted. "Hope you have sense enough to wear these, and remember, kerosene and lard for your chest when you take cold. You're given to colds."

Tomi giggled. Blessed Aunt Hannah! These sleepers warmed her heart instead of her toes.

"I'm going to get up now and celebrate," she announced.

"Oh, no you're not," countered Dotty. "Your temperature is up a point. You'll celebrate in bed with a tray.

"By the way—" she tried to appear nonchalant—"there's another gift downstairs. It was too heavy to carry up. It's a typewriter."

"Here's the card that came on it," offered Dtty. "It's pretty, red and ivory—the machine, I mean."

Tomi took the gay birthday card. Across it was written: "To keep you in practice, Allen.

At first she thought, how considerate, then her eyes narrowed. To keep her in practice. Then he thought she'd be looking for another stenographic job when the frog season was over.

"I'll show him," she promised herself, "and I'll use the typewriter to help me."

Tomi was allowed to look at the birthday cake. Huge, piled with butter-cream roses and well wishes. She was allowed to listen to Dotty repeat the menu. And then she was given a poached egg and a tall glass of hot milk.

She didn't mind her isolation particularly. She wasn't ready to face Pierre. She must think of him first, think of him now as a prospective husband, not as a ranaculturist.

For a moment she sat drowsily listening to the waves crash on the beach, the quick rush of a shower on the roof, the splash of raindrops on the windowpane.

The storm outside made the comfort inside more vivid by comparison. The walls of this, her very own room with the furniture placed where she wanted it, were like the arms of those friends downstairs.

Carefully she reached down to slip the knitted sleepers over her toes.

And now to Pierre. Pierre loved her. That was a heart warming thought. Pierre was handsome, all of the girls in Allen's crowd thought so. He wasn't dashing and thrilling, but he was so sane and sure. That is what one needed in a lifetime partner.

There are two kinds of love, she reasoned. One was the heady, reckless kind that lifted you to the skies, then cast you down, broken. The other was a calm, growing emotion, based on companionship and mutual respect. It endured forever.

Pierre would make a wonderful husband for her. He seemed as passionately fond of the farm as she was. Together they would make it thrive.

"'We'll turn it into a tiny farm like my grandmother had," she whispered. "The kind of a farm Julie told me about, with chickens, a pig, a cow, vegetables . . . and, of course, here we'll have frogs."

Pierre could look after the farm, and she'd look after the house, Pierre and Abe—and Dotty, of course.

"Pierre . . . in blue smock and beret," she murmured sleepily. She could vizualize him hoeing rows of green things.

Pierre was still in the garden when she went to sleep. She hadn't been able to picture him in the house, as a husband who would issue the orders she should obey.

For two days, Tomi was kept in her room by the domineering Dotty. Part of the time she studied the books on ranaculture, part of the time studied telephone directories of the nearby cities, and part of the time she sketched skeleton letterheads.

State's Marine Cadets Get Training Ship

Philadelphia, March 16 (AP)—Sailing time is approaching again for Pennsylvania's marine cadets—and this year they'll train on a cruiser known as the United States Navy's "Honeymoon Ship."

Eighty-four Pennsylvania youths, preparing for careers in the merchant marine, will set out from Philadelphia April 5 aboard the light cruiser Omaha for a month-long Carribean cruise.

The Navy department has granted the use of the cruiser for training purposes by the Nautical School of the Delaware Navigation commission.

It will substitute for the 42-year-old schoolship Annapolis, condemned some time ago by the bureau of navigation and consigned to the scrap heap.

The Omaha came into prominence last June when she headed home after 15 months in European waters. Coming to America at the same time were seven French brides of members of the crew, married through special permits.

Left weeping on the dock at Nice, France, were fiancees of eleven other members of the crew, unable to wed because French law requires foreigners to live a year in France before marriage. Residence on a warship doesn't count.

While stationed on the other side of the Atlantic, the Omaha at one time stood by to evacuate American citizens from Barcelona, Spain, at the approach of Franco's forces. But that was not necessary.

WILL ON BILLHEAD

Philadelphia, March 16 (AP)—A will written in longhand on a billhead has been admitted to probate here. It gives the $19,500 estate of Mrs. Mary J. Ballantine to her daughter, Gertrude.

PERPETUAL SMOKER

Carbondale, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Joseph Lindsey, retired blacksmith, observed his 91st birthday anniversary with the comment: "Yes, sir, I smoke my pipe only once a day—that's all day long."

Backgrounds of Adams County

By B. F. MACPHERSON

No. 132 — For You — The Dobbin House

TODAY — at the very start — we wish to add a few details to our sketch of the Revolutionary soldier, Lieutenant George Sheakley, given last week. These notes were furnished by an "out-of-town" reader, a descendant of the said Lieutenant Sheakley.

In the first place Margaret McCurdy, the wife of George Sheakley, died on May 12, 1825, surviving her husband thirteen years. Our informant also tells us that it is quite probable that she, Margaret McCurdy Sheakley, is buried beside her husband.

Nancy Sheakley, the daughter of George and Margaret (McCurdy) Sheakley, was married by the Rev. John Herbst in November of 1827 to William Bailey. After their marriage the couple moved to Larue, Ohio, where they are buried. William and Nancy (Sheakley) were the parents of the following children:

1. Findley Bailey — Captain in Co. "K" of the First Pennsylvania Reserves — killed before the battle of Gettysburg.

2. Rufus Bailey — became a lawyer.

3. Caroline Bailey intermarried with the Rev. W. E. Crebs, a graduate of Gettysburg college and Seminary.

4. Florinda Bailey intermarried with ———? Van Arsdall.

5. Eliza Bailey intermarried with ———? Straw.

6. Harriet Bailey.

Some of the Sheakley graves were moved to the Evergreen cemetery. We do not have a list of these — but hope to secure them in the near future. When we do so we will give them in this column. It may be that they will "throw more light" on the Sheakley family.

* * *

IN column No. 112 (November 27, 1939) and No. 113 (November 28, 1939) we wrote of John and Charles Stewart, soldiers of the Revolution. Today we add an interesting note. (Pennsylvania Archives — 5th Series — Volume 2 — Page 768), concerning John Stewart (First Regiment — Pennsylvania Continental Line), as follows:

"I, John Stewart, do swear, that I am not a deserter from the British army, or from the army or navy of the United States: That I renounce, refuse, and abjure the king of Great Britain, his heirs and successors; and that I will be true and faithful to the United States of America; and that I will faithfully serve them in the Pennsylvania line, during the present war; and that I will be obedient to the orders of Congress, and the officers by them set over me, according to the Continental articles of war, and the establishment of the corps in which I am now inlisted. So help me God

"Sourn before me this 6th day of August 1782

"Lancaster Co.

Jacob Kagey."

An oath, such as the one quoted above, took care of all emergencies and left few, if any, loopholes of escape. Evidently John Stewart was in Lancaster county in service at the time the pledge or oath was taken.

* * *

NEXT we take up the question of the Dobbin House. You can see by our title that we intend to make some mention of this old structure. We have given the story before, but for the benefit of our readers who may have missed our earlier sketches we make it a "twice-told" tale.

The Dobbin House was built by the Rev. Alexander Dobbin, one of the early Presbyterian ministers in this section. The Rev. Dobbin was born in Londonderry, Ireland, February 27, 1742, and died at his home near Gettysburg June 1, 1809. He was educated in Glasgow, and ordained in the Reformed Presbytery of Ireland and was sent as a missionary to this country, coming direct to what is now Adams county, and taking charge of the "Rock Creek" congregation that had "called" for him. When the Rev. Mr. Murray, pastor of the "Old Hill" church, near the border of Carroll's Tract left, Mr. Dobbin became the pastor of that church also, dividing his time between the two congregations.

In the early days of his residence in this section the Rev. Mr. Dobbin "took up" a tract of land, near what is now the southern portion of the borough, and built thereon, in 1776, a large stone house. From 1776 to 1801 the minister maintained in this house, the first classical school west of the Susquehanna. Many men, prominent in their day, were students here.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the exterior of the Dobbin House, but few of us ever had the opportunity to explore the interior. There are twelve large rooms, not counting the "spring room." The majority of the woodwork is oak. There are wide floor boards, mantles, old oaken partitions, deep windows with small panes, doors on hinges handmade by the blacksmith. Rafters are hewn logs, and some of the joists underneath the floor still have the bark on. There are unsealed ceilings, seven fire places running into the great stone chimneys, flanking the house at either end. In the kitchen is a huge fire place where the crane of another day hung. A stairway with an old-fashioned bannister worn smooth by countless numbers of hands — all this in an excellent state of preservation, with a sparkling spring of water flowing under a flagstone in the "spring room."

Undoubtedly the Dobbin House is our most historic colonial structure. It should be preserved, in order that the glory and pride of its day and generation may never fade. We need such structures to remind us of a day that is past, of brave men and gallant women who had the courage to build a new world on the soil of a bloody frontier. Would you be willing to support a move to restore and preserve the Dobbin House?

POSTMAN TAKES HOLIDAY

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Rudolph K. Fortna continued his rounds of downtown business houses today after resting his feet long enough to receive the plaudits of 100 of his "customers." The merchants he has served 34 years gave him a banquet Thursday night, since retirement is only two weeks away. He donned his blue-gray uniform for the first time in 1900.

Reformed Church Merger Approved

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Merger of the East Petersburg and Mountville congregations of the Evangelical and Reformed church was approved at a meeting of the Lancaster synod council here.

The Rev. Paul Nagy, Jr., who has been pastor at Mountville, was elected pastor of the new charge.

The pulpit of the Millersburg church was declared vacant, with the resignation of the Rev. John H. Sando. (The Rev. Mr. Sando will go to Bethany church in York. He is a son of the Rev. Edwin Sando, of Hanover.)

The council also accepted the resignation of the Rev. Richard J. Keen, of First church, Steelton, effective April 2, and released him to the Lehigh synod.

TO OPEN SHOE PLANT IN NEW OXFORD

David C. Bloser, West Myrtle street, Littlestown, and Earl Yungel, Mechanicsburg, will open a shoe factory in New Oxford next week. The factory, which will occupy a portion of the Livingston shoe factory building, will be known as the New Oxford Baby Shoe factory. The new factory, which will be under the supervision of Mr. Bloser, will manufacture infants' shoes exclusively. Mr. Bloser was formerly superintendent of the Littonian Shoe factory, of Littlestown. The new company will start with twelve employes and will gradually increase the number. Mr. Livingston will continue to operate his shoe factory in another part of the building as at present.

est in the park and knowledge of the battle itself . . . and to encourage the appreciation of this National Shrine among all our citizens."

"That which we hope to do will probably never be done unless undertaken by private initiative backed by public support," is one of the statements in the "Purposes and Plans" of the Association which deserves consideration by Gettysburg citizens.

* * *

Life membership in the association is one dollar per year and the headquarters are located at 359 Hartford Road, South Orange, New Jersey.

* * *

On November 19, 1938, the Lincoln Fellowship of Pennsylvania was founded. Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson is president; C. H. Martin is vice president; Dr. R. S. Saby is vice president, and Henry E. Luhrs, Lincoln Library, Shippensburg, Pa., is secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of this Fellowship is "To observe as a Holy Day, each anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln; to fittingly commemorate the anniversary of the dedication of the Soldiers' National Cemetery and the Gettysburg Address be delivered there; to preserve and make more readily accessible the landmarks associated with his life or ancestry within Pennsylvania; and actively to encourage the youth of our Commonwealth to embrace his ideals."

* * *

At the last pilgrimage of the Fellowship to Gettysburg it was decided "to seek 500 Pennsylvanians who love the great Lincoln to join us and spread his simple, sincere, sane kind of Americanism."

If this organization did nothing else than to commemorate the anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address it should be worth one dollar per year to 500 Gettysburgians, let alone 500 Pennsylvanians.

* * *

Doctor Hanson, President of Gettysburg college and president of the Fellowship, is an ardent Lincoln enthusiast and he was, primarily, the moving factor in the organization work of the unit. He always has urged the observance of the famous November 19 date and The Gettysburg Times is happy for the privilege of lending its support to this occasion each year.

* * *

Would it not be well to make November 19 a legal holiday in Gettysburg . . . and the entire community join with the Lincoln Fellowship in fittingly observing the memorable occasion?

SLASH IN W.P.A. LABOR HINTED

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP).—Announcement of a nation-wide slash in W.P.A. rolls today introduced an element of uncertainty into the status of federal work relief employment in Pennsylvania.

Shortly after a joint committee representing Governor James and W.P.A. authorities had expressed the belief Pennsylvania's job quota would be filled when weather conditions improve, federal authorities announced rolls throughout the nation would be cut by 228,000 in April.

"We might get a reduction in May and June," said State Administrator Philip Matthews, "but I don't know whether to look for one in April." He said any specific information concerning possible cuts in Pennsylvania's quota would have to come from Washington.

Present W.P.A. employment in Pennsylvania is estimated at 144,812, and a quota of 165,000 was agreed upon recently after a bitter battle between James and republican congressmen on one side, and W.P.A. authorities on the other.

The joint committee was created to iron out such conflicts.

Before hearing of the new nation-wide reduction, James wrote National Administrator F. C. Harrington he was pleased to learn from the committee "that no reason now exists why we can not expect W.P.A. employment in this state to reach its quota within two or three weeks."

The committee said "It appears that there are, or will be with the advent of favorable weather and the completion of action already initiated, sufficient projects and sufficient employables available for assignment to bring W.P.A. employment from 144,000 up to the quota of 165,000 and probably beyond that figure."

In Dauphin and Allegheny counties and three townships of Schuylkill county, the group said it discovered "projects either operating or ready to start immediately or in the near future which would provide employment for approximately 8,000 additional persons."

AMUSEMENTS: HERE AND THERE

NEXT WEEK AT THE MAJESTIC
Monday and Tuesday — "VIGIL IN THE NIGHT"
Wednesday — "REMEMBER THE NIGHT"
Thursday — "OH, JOHNNY, HOW YOU CAN LOVE"
Friday and Saturday — "THE MAN FROM DAKOTA"

Annie Shirley, as the girl miscast in the nursing profession, in "Vigil in the Night," makes a fatal mistake. She has found the strongest characterization of her brilliant screen career. She is co-starred with Carole Lombard and Brian Aherne in this RKO Radio drama from the pen of Dr. A. J. Cronin, author of "The Citadel."

* * *

COMPLETE casting of Maxwell Anderson's play "Winterset," to be presented in the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium on Friday evening, March 29, has been announced by Dr. Richard A. Arms, dramatics director.

Students portraying characters in the production include Jack Arnold, Philip W. Waruke, N. Erik Thorlaksson, Janet B. Lloyd, Melvin J. Freeman, Kenderlon S. Lynch, Vara J. Norman, Shirley I. Wood, Stanton E. Thomas, John W. McCarrell, Walter F. Simon, George W. Reneker, Jack M. Regester, Francis E. Alter, Robert A. Houtz, Karl K. Kramer, Nathan E. Sklar and Irvin G. Zimmerman.

The play itself is a story of the slums, in which the characters struggle to achieve truth and justice, but are inevitably doomed to defeat. The play is permeated with the tragedy of life and hope among the people beyond the bounds of society. It is a strong plea for social justice and understanding of the lower classes.

It was first produced on the Broadway stage in 1936.

Pickup from last week ends—

Brenda Marshall gives "rummage parties." Admission is an article of old clothing which goes into her community's rummage sales.

* * *

A saucy story of a district attorney who falls in love with a girl he's trying to send to prison, is presentd in "Remember the Night."

The role of district attorney is played by Fred MacMurray, recently in the comedy success "Honeymoon in Bali," while the lovely felon portraying the girl who steals his heart is Barbara Stanwyck, whose most recent screen success is "Golden Boy." Beulah Bondi and Elizabeth Patterson and Sterling Holloway round out the big supporting cast.

One of the features of "Remember the Night" is a swing rendition of the perennially popular "Back Home in Indiana," rendered by Martha Mears of radio fame and The King's Men. This music is used to set the mood of the picture, most of the action of which is centered on an Indiana farm. "Fuzzy" Knight also appears as the leader of a farm-boy orchestra, which among other things, supplies a real old-fashion "heel and toe" polka.

* * *

The Strand theatre has discontinued its Tuesday programs, the management has announced.

* * *

"THE Vatican of Pius XII" is the title of the March of Time release that will be shown at the Majestic theatre on Wednesday, March 20.

The March of Time covered the Vatican completely in film and the many reels were cut and arranged into the customary two-reel picture length.

Hundreds of shots were taken within the basilica of St. Peter's, in the crypts beneath the church where the ancient Popes are buried, in the Sistine Chapel, in the famous Vatican library and of such mundane accessories as the Vatican postoffice, radio station, grocery store and sausage mill. There is a sequence showing the Pope receiving an audience, the celebration of a mass in the crypt of St. Peters and an appearance of Pope Pius before an assembly in the Academy of Science.

The original arrangement for the filming provided that no lights should be used by the camera men for indoor shooting, but this provision was later rescinded except in instances where lights might have damaged old art treasures.

The film opens with an explanation of the spiritual realm of the Vatican, a survey of what has happened and is happening to many of the Pope's people follows, and then there is a brief biography of Pius XII, especially his career as a diplomat.

* * *

"Pinocchio," Walt Disney's newest feature-length animated cartoon of the little puppet who came to life, is the selection of the national screen council as winner of the boxoffice blue ribbon award for February.

* * *

THE adventures of a traveling salesman and a runaway heiress are pictured in "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love," a film that blends music with gay romance.

Tom Brown and Peggy Moran carry the love interest in the film which brings to the screen the song sensation, "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love," sung by radio songstress Betty Jane Rhodes.

Allen Jenkins is seen as a comedy gangster who hitches a ride with the boy and girl. He then tries to handle the job of both cupid and kidnaper as they ride wildly toward the Canadian border.

* * *

Johnny Mack Brown, Bob Baker, Fuzzy Knight will appear in "West of Carson City" at the Strand next Saturday.

* * *

A new screen team comprising Wallace Beery, popular comedian-heavy; Dolores Del Rio, vibrant Latin-American actress, and John Howard, makes its bow in "The Man From Dakota."

As a Yankee prisoner of war who escapes the Confederate prison camp at Belle Isle, Beery plays a typical action-filled role, encountering one melodramatic predicament after another with his two companions. Miss Del Rio portrays a Russian girl who becomes a fugitive after shooting a Confederate officer, her former fiance. Howard appears as Beery's young and idealistic superior officer, who escapes with him.

Heading the supporting cast are Donald Meek, forsaking comedy for villainy; Robert Barrat, Addison Richards, Frederick Burton, William Haade and John Wray.

* * *

When Priscilla Lane wants to lose weight she stops using salt in her food. The tasteless food kills her appetite.

* * *

PICTURES coming to the Majestic during the week of February 25 follow:

Monday and Tuesday—"Strange Cargo," with Clark Gable and Joan Crawford.

Wednesday—"Green Hell," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Bennett.

Thursday—"The Man Who Wouldn't Talk," with Lloyd Nolan and Jean Rogers.

Friday and Saturday—"Grapes of Wrath," with Henry Fonda and Jane Darwell.

JOHN ANDREW, of Cashtown, a freshman at Shippensburg State Teachers' college, had a leading part in the annual spring play produced by the Masquers, college dramatic club, on Friday. He played the part of "Mr. Lingley," a hard businessman, in "Outward Bound," the well-known stage play chosen for presentation this year. Andrew also is active in debating at the college, having participated in the novice debate tournament at Shepherd State Teachers' College in West Virginia last December.

Plane Factory to Open In Luzerne County

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Establishment of an airplane factory and re-opening of a long-closed textile throwing mill, both in Luzerne county, are announced by Pennsylvanias Department of Commerce.

Secretary Richard P. Brown said the Welch aircraft industries, Inc., moving from South Bend, Indiana, shipped the first of its machinery to Wilkes-Barre, Friday. It will be installed in part of the Sheldon axle works while a new building is being erected near the Wilkes-Barre-Wyoming valley airport at Forty Fort.

Orin Welch, head of the firm, has been building planes since 1927, and will manufacture the "lowest-priced" light craft in the country, Brown said. Between 100 and 200 young men will be trained as craftsmen.

Brown also said the Anthracite Silk company at Wyoming re-opened with 45 employes after five years' idleness, and expects to have between 175 and 200 at work within about two weeks.

Reports Resignations Of 2 Finnish Ministers

London, March 16 (AP).—An Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, dispatch from Stockholm today reported the resignation of two more members of the Finnish government, Juhu Kusti Paasikivi, minister without portfolio, and R. Von Fieandt, minister of public works.

Two cabinet members, War Minister Juho Niukanen and Education Minister Uuno Hannula, resigned Wednesday in protest against the peace with Soviet Russia.

Paasikivi was a member of the Finnish delegation that negotiated the peace treaty with Russia in Moscow last Tuesday and headed the delegation that went to Moscow before the outbreak of the war November 30 to discuss Russian territorial demands upon Finland.

Finland to Fortify New Frontiers

Helsinki, March 16 (AP)—Finland will begin immediately to fortify her newly-narrowed frontiers and to re-organize her battered army despite the non-aggression clause in her peace treaty with Soviet Russia, informed quarters declared today.

There will be no general demobilization of the army, except for certain classes which will be released to help with civil reconstruction work after the costly 105-day war, these sources said.

The Finnish government attitude toward the future was suggested by Premier Risto Ryti, who told the diet Friday night that the nation would go forward "with a sword in one hand and a trowel in the other."

Finland's proposal for a defense alliance with Sweden and Norway is another part of her determination to be strong.

At the present time there are from 30 to 40 fishermen's cooperatives in the United States.

AN ACTION-FREE SHIRTFROCK

MARIAN MARTIN
PATTERN 9276

Could anything have more roundabout usefulness than a tailored shirtwaister like Marian Martin's Pattern 9276? Why not use one of the new spun-rayon fabrics, or try a tie silk, a gabardine or chambray? The full skirt is quickly stitched, for there are no side seams—just three easy pieces. Cut the front panel bias, for soft flare. A long-length skirt for evening wear is included. The bodice has an all-around yoke with nice fullness below. Have short, neatly tucked sleeves, or make them full with smooth wristbands. Notice how stunning the top and skirt look in one of the new color contrasts.

Pattern 9276 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 6¾ yards 35 inch.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

AMUSEMENTS: HERE AND THERE

NEXT WEEK AT THE MAJESTIC
Monday and Tuesday — "VIGIL IN THE NIGHT"
Wednesday — "REMEMBER THE NIGHT"
Thursday — "OH, JOHNNY, HOW YOU CAN LOVE"
Friday and Saturday — "THE MAN FROM DAKOTA"

Anne Shirley, as the girl miscast in the nursing profession, in "Vigil in the Night," makes a fatal mistake. She has found the strongest characterization of her brilliant screen career. She is co-starred with Carole Lombard and Brian Aherne in this RKO Radio drama from the pen of Dr. A. J. Cronin, author of "The Citadel."

COMPLETE casting of Maxwell Anderson's play "Winterset," to be presented in the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium on Friday evening, March 29, has been announced by Dr. Richard A. Arms, dramatics director.

Students portraying characters in the production include Jack Arnold, Philip W. Warnke, N. Erik Thorlaksson, Janet B. Lloyd, Melvin J. Freeman, Kenderton S. Lynch, Vara J. Norman, Shirley I. Wood, Stanton E. Thomas, John W. McCarrell, Walter F. Simon, George W. Reneker, Jack M. Regester, Francis E. Alter, Robert A. Houtz, Karl K. Kramer, Nathan E. Sklar and Irvin G. Zimmerman.

The play itself is a story of the slums, in which the characters struggle to achieve truth and justice, but are inevitably doomed to defeat. The play is permeated with the tragedy of life and hope among the people beyond the bounds of society. It is a strong plea for social justice and understanding of the lower classes.

It was first produced on the Broadway stage in 1936.

A saucy story of a district attorney who falls in love with a girl he's trying to send to prison, is presentd in "Remember the Night."

The role of district attorney is played by Fred MacMurray, recently in the comedy success "Honeymoon in Bali," while the lovely felon portraying the girl who steals his heart is Barbara Stanwyck, whose most recent screen success is "Golden Boy." Beulah Bondi and Elizabeth Patterson and Sterling Holloway round out the big supporting cast.

One of the features of "Remember the Night" is a swing rendition of the perennially popular "Back Home in Indiana," rendered by Martha Mears of radio fame and The King's Men. This music is used to set the mood of the picture, most of the action of which is centered on an Indiana farm. "Fuzzy" Knight also appears as the leader of a farm-boy orchestra, which among other things, supplies a real old-fashion "heel and toe" polka.

"THE Vatican of Pius XII" is the title of the March of Time release that will be shown at the Majestic theatre on Wednesday, March 20.

The March of Time covered the Vatican completely in film and the many reels were cut and arranged into the customary two-reel picture length.

Hundreds of shots were taken within the basilica of St. Peter's, in the crypts beneath the church where the ancient Popes are buried, in the Sistine Chapel, in the famous Vatican library and of such mundane accessories as the Vatican postoffice, radio station, grocery store and sausage mill. There is a sequence showing the Pope receiving an audience, the celebration of a mass in the crypt of St. Peters and an appearance of Pope Pius before an assembly in the Academy of Science.

The original arrangement for the filming provided that no lights should be used by the camera men for indoor shooting, but this provision was later rescinded except in instances where lights might have damaged old art treasures.

The film opens with an explanation of the spiritual realm of the Vatican, a survey of what has happened and is happening to many of the Pope's people follows, and then there is a brief biography of Pius XII, especially his career as a diplomat.

"Pinocchio," Walt Disney's newest feature-length animated cartoon of the little puppet who came to life, is the selection of the national screen council as winner of the boxoffice blue ribbon award for February.

THE adventures of a traveling salesman and a runaway heiress are pictured in "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love," a film that blends music with gay romance.

Tom Brown and Peggy Moran carry the love interest in the film which brings to the screen the song sensation, "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love," sung by radio songstress Betty Jane Rhodes.

Allen Jenkins is seen as a comedy gangster who hitches a ride with the boy and girl. He then tries to handle the job of both cupid and kidnaper as they ride wildly toward the Canadian border.

Johnny Mack Brown, Bob Baker, Fuzzy Knight will appear in "West of Carson City" at the Strand next Saturday.

A new screen team comprising Wallace Beery, popular comedian-heavy; Dolores Del Rio, vibrant Latin-American actress, and John Howard, makes its bow in "The Man From Dakota."

As a Yankee prisoner of war who escapes the Confederate prison camp at Belle Isle, Beery plays a typical action-filled role, encountering one melodramatic predicament after another with his two companions. Miss Del Rio portrays a Russian girl who becomes a fugitive after shooting a Confederate officer, her former fiance. Howard appears as Beery's young and idealistic superior officer, who escapes with him.

Heading the supporting cast are Donald Meek, forsaking comedy for villainy; Robert Barrat, Addison Richards, Frederick Burton, William Haade and John Wray.

When Priscilla Lane wants to lose weight she stops using salt in her food. The tasteless food kills her appetite.

JOHN ANDREW, of Cashtown, a freshman at Shippensburg State Teachers' college, had a leading part in the annual spring play produced by the Masquers, college dramatic club, on Friday. He played the part of "Mr. Lingley," a hard businessman, in "Outward Bound," the well-known stage play chosen for presentation this year. Andrew also is active in debating at the college, having participated in the novice debate tournament at Shepherd State Teachers' College in West Virginia last December.

Plane Factory to Open In Luzerne County

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Establishment of an airplane factory and re-opening of a long-closed textile throwing mill, both in Luzerne county, are announced by Pennsylvanias Department of Commerce.

Secretary Richard P. Brown said the Welch aircraft industries, Inc., moving from South Bend, Indiana, shipped the first of its machinery to Wilkes-Barre, Friday. It will be installed in part of the Sheldon axle works while a new building is being erected near the Wilkes-Barre-Wyoming valley airport at Forty Fort.

Orin Welch, head of the firm, has been building planes since 1927, and will manufacture the "lowest-priced" light craft in the country, Brown said. Between 100 and 200 young men will be trained as craftsmen.

Brown also said the Anthracite Silk company at Wyoming re-opened with 45 employes after five years' idleness, and expects to have between 175 and 200 at work within about two weeks.

Reports Resignations Of 2 Finnish Ministers

London, March 16 (AP).—An Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, dispatch from Stockholm today reported the resignation of two more members of the Finnish government, Juhu Kusti Paasikivi, minister without portfolio, and R. Von Fieandt, minister of public works.

Two cabinet members, War Minister Juho Niukanen and Education Minister Uuno Hannula, resigned Wednesday in protest against the peace with Soviet Russia.

Paasikivi was a member of the Finnish delegation that negotiated the peace treaty with Russia in Moscow last Tuesday and headed the delegation that went to Moscow before the outbreak of the war November 30 to discuss Russian territorial demands upon Finland.

Finland to Fortify New Frontiers

Helsinki, March 16 (AP)—Finland will begin immediately to fortify her newly-narrowed frontiers and to re-organize her battered army despite the non-aggression clause in her peace treaty with Soviet Russia, informed quarters declared today.

There will be no general demobilization of the army, except for certain classes which will be released to help with civil reconstruction work after the costly 105-day war, these sources said.

The Finnish government attitude toward the future was suggested by Premier Risto Ryti, who told the diet Friday night that the nation would go forward "with a sword in one hand and a trowel in the other."

Finland's proposal for a defense alliance with Sweden and Norway is another part of her determination to be strong.

At the present time there are from 30 to 40 fishermen's cooperatives in the United States.
